CRAZED MOTHER TRIES TO BURN 4 CHILDREN

A White House Breakfast
How to Stop Crime
Popes and Kings
Jaipur's Girl Sacrifice
Current Events
—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1924, Star Co.

ON THURSDAY, E. H. Gary, head of the biggest industrial organization in the world, and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., representing what is probably still the biggest fortune in the world, and incidentally one of the most useful, will have breakfast with President Coolidge at the White House.

They will discuss law enforcement and the findings of a citizens' committee of one thousand.

THOSE THREE men will make an interesting breakfast combination. Gary became head of the great steel concern when he was past fifty, Rockefeller, Jr., born to own and manage the world's greatest fortune, is removed by only one generation from a little farm in the hills along the Hudson, and Calvin Coolidge in one generation is promoted from a farm in Vermont to the White House.

Apparently, "careers are still open to talent," as Napoleon put it, here in America.

THE PRESIDENT will entertain in Gary and Rockefeller two men that might do more than any others to solve the crime problem.

You can diminish crime in two ways; first, by making it costly and painful to the criminal with severe, prompt and inevitable punishment.

Second, since crime is always unprofitable, it can be reduced by increasing facilities in obtaining employment.

THE LAW should be able to say to every man: "If you need food, and your wife and children need food, I will show you where you can work any day in the year and earn enough to feed yourself and your family.

"If you prefer crime to work, I shall show you another place, where you will work inside prison walls and earn nothing for yourself. I shall use your earnings in that other place to see that your wife and family don't starve."

ROCKEFELLER AND GARY might offer interesting suggestions for legislation that would supply constant employment. This country is big enough and needs enough work to keep everybody busy.

In England they pay a hard cash allowance to idle man, and they have done it since the war, in the British unemployment allowance, thus avoiding the crime waves we have here. To put men to work is better than to make beggars of them.

CHANGES COME rapidly. In 1875, when Pope Leo opened the Holy Door in Rome, he sent gold medals in honor of the event to the Austrian Emperor Francis Joseph, then ruling part of Poland.

Now Pope Pius, fifty years later, again opens the Holy Door, and sends one gold medal to President Wocjechowski, President of the Republic of Poland, and one to his wife, Madame Wocjechowski.

LITTLE COULD the old Emperor have imagined what was to happen before the Holy Door should next be opened.

Kings and emperors come and go, rise and fall; the Pope goes on.

One reason is found in the fact that cardinals select for Pope the ablest man among them, whereas emperors and kings are selected by the accident of birth.

ONE OF ten thousand rumors says the Russian government will stir up revolution in Cairo and attempt, via Egypt, to "set India in flames." This won't worry the British Lion. He knows water-drinking, vegetable-eating Asiatics do not take fire so easily. And when they do, they usually attack and burn

POTHIER ATTACKS DIVORCE FRAUDS IN 'RENO OF THE EAST'

Providence, Jan. 6.—What is believed to be the doom of the "Little Reno" of the East was sounded today when Governor Aram J. Pothier, in his inaugural address, recommended that evidence in all divorce cases be given in open court.

Having in mind the long list of "deposition" divorces which have been granted in Rhode Island, the Governor declared the discovery had been made that, "at times," non-residents were taking fraudulent advantage of the laws.

His action is believed to have been inspired by the divorce case of Nina Wilcox Putnam Sanderson, famous writer, whose divorce decree was vacated early this year.

The decree originally granted by Judge Chester W. Barrows, was vacated when he learned the novelist, who gave her residence as Rhode Island, was living in Connecticut. The grand jury investigated her case, but returned no indictment.

Among those granted divorces in Rhode Island recently through depositional testimony were Mrs. Minta Durfee Arbuckle, wife of Fatty Ar-

GARAGE BANDIT SHOT IN AMESBURY FIGHT

Amesbury, Jan. 6.—Held up in his own garage, Earl Symonds, proprietor of a bowling alley and poolroom at No. 8 Mill street, engaged in a gun battle with two bandits, wounded one and drove them away early today.

Later Howard Freeman, twenty-eight years old, of Friend street, Amesbury, was arrested at the Newburyport Homeopathic Hospital, where he had gone to obtain treatment for a bullet wound in the jaw.

The police are searching for a second hold-up man, who, with his companion, fled from Symonds' gun fire in an automobile.

Symonds, who lives at No. 28 Hillside avenue, closed up his place of business at midnight and drove home in his automobile. Opening

DASHES INTO FIRE TO SAVE 3 CHILDREN

Three children nearly lost their lives early today when fire, starting in the basement of a dwelling at No. 41 and 43 Palmer street, Arlington, burned through the floor and cut off the children's room from that of their parents.

The first floor was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Kane and their three small children. The other apartment was occupied by Mrs. C. A. Dooley and her two daughters, Winifred and Mildred.

The Kanes awoke to find their room filled with smoke. Kane started for the children's room, but found that the flames had come up through the bathroom, which was between the two bedrooms. Kane threw a blanket over his head and dashed through the flames and, gathering his children in his arms, dashed back with them to safety.

The Dooley family was aroused and fled in their night clothing. The damage was estimated at $1,000.

MOTHER OF 4 ROUTS ATTACKER IN BATTLE

Salem, Jan. 6.—Mrs. Marie Pussard, thirty-five years old, widow and mother of four children, for nearly half an hour today fought off the attack of an unidentified young man in the kitchen of her home, No. 254 Ward street.

The woman's screams eventually drove off her assailant and she managed to telephone the police before collapsing.

A description of the young man was furnished by Mrs. Pussard and was broadcast by the police.

Mrs. Pussard said she was alone in the house, her children having gone

'PURPLE MASK' AND GIRL PAL

ARRESTED IN HAVERHILL ROBBERIES

Samuel Lindenbom, known in ring circles as "Young Leonard," has admitted that he donned woman's clothes and, masked by a purple handkerchief, robbed Haverhill stores, the police say. Blanche Du Bois, arrested with Lindenbom, is said by the police to be the "brains" of the holdup gang.

FIRST SKIRMISH IN PHONE BATTLE TODAY

The first skirmish in the battle of opposition to the proposed $13,000,000 telephone rate increase took place at the State House today.

One hundred and ninety-five cities and towns and seventy-one organizations and individuals entered their appearances before the State Department of Public Utilities, which will hear the evidence to be presented by the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company.

The first hearing in what promises to be a long-drawn-out case will take place on February 9. Hearings will be held four days every week until the case is completed.

All five members of the board, of which Henry C. Atwill is chairman, were present at the preliminary meeting today.

HARVARD MAN FINED $100 FOR AUTO DEATH

Salem, Jan. 6.—John Harrison Whitfield, Harvard student and member of a wealthy New York family, who caused the death November 17 of Gordon J. Hotchkiss in an automobile accident was fined $100 here today.

Whitfield, against whom a manslaughter charge was dismissed, at first appealed the sentence, but changed his mind and paid the fine. He was found guilty of operating an automobile so as to endanger the lives and safety of the police.

On November 16 Whitfield was driving his automobile on the Newburyport Turnpike with Miss Alice Gorman of No. 315 Harvard street, Cambridge. According to testimony they were returning from a camping party at Newmaket, N. H., where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ramsdell.

At the side of the turnpike in Topsfield, a car was parked, while Hotchkiss and another man changed a tired. According to the evidence, Whitfield's car crashed into the parked machine, which struck Hotchkis.

Real "Hicks" Are in New York, Not in Podunkville

New York, Jan. 6 (Universal).—New York is the world's first and biggest and most pronounced "hick" town. There are more downright rubes here to the square inch than anywhere else on the globe.

So declares W. H. Walker, director of federal prohibition field agents.

He flung his accusation over his shoulder on departing for Washington today.

"The New York rube is measured by his provincialism," he declared. "He seldom, if ever, leaves his own city, and is totally blind to the fact that there is any other spot on the map.

"All he knows of the world is confined within the area of New York city."

GETS TWO YEARS FOR ASSAULT AND ROBBERY

Declaring he was the victim of a police "frameup," but not following it with an appeal, Herbert Harris of Prescott street, Somerville, charged with beating and stealing $3.80 from Maurice Cunningham of No. 72 Tremont street, Charlestown, was sentenced to jail for two years by Judge Michael J. Murray in Municipal Court today. Cunningham was found bleeding and prostrate in a Commercial street doorway Christmas eve, with Harris standing over him, clutching the money alleged to have been stolen. Cunningham is in City Hospital.

LYNN YOUNGSTERS SAVED BY FATHER FROM BLAZING BED

Mrs. Mary Renzy, Lynn mother, went suddenly insane today and tried to burn four of her children to death. She set fire to the bed in which the four little ones, between the ages of three and fourteen, were sleeping.

The children were saved from death when their father rushed into the room and beat out the flames with his bare hands.

Hysterical and screaming at the top of her voice, Mrs. Renzy ran from her home in her bare feet and night clothes and attempted to end her life in Little River.

As she was about to plunge into the water, she was seized by Patrolman David Feinberg who had been attracted by her screams.

John Renzy, the woman's husband

3 ARE SAVED FROM DEATH IN MALDEN

Two Malden women and a four-year-old boy narrowly escaped death by gas today.

They are Mrs. Louise Forget, thirty-one, her son, Roger, four, and Mrs. Alma Robert, twenty-two, all of No. 81 Jackson street, Malden.

Mrs. Robert awakened about 8 a. m. She attempted to rise but again and again fell back as though held by some invisible force. Her head ached as though it were going to burst. The woman realized in her half stupor that something was wrong, and after a valiant effort she left her bed and made her way to the front door.

She succeeded in opening the door and then fell unconscious across the threshold. A neighbor saw her fall. He rushed to her assistance and smelled gas in the house. Calling the police and Dr. T. W. Leavitt,

He will be elected a vice-president of the First National Bank of Boston at the next regular meeting of the board of directros.

The retiring Chief Executive of the Bay State will not make his debut as a banker until after he and Mrs. Cox return from a brief vacation in California in February.

Thereafter he will devote his entire time to the interests of the banking institution in its palatial new home at the junction of Milk and Devonshire streets.

Rumor had it that when Governor Cox quit his duties at the State House he would enter the insurance field in a $25,000 berth as executive, but he side-stepped insurance for the more tempting field of finance.

SKINNER OF BRUINS TRADED TO MONTREAL

WIFE DIVORCED FROM BIGAMOUS HUSBAND

The methods of a modern wife-seeker were disclosed in Middlesex Probate Court, East Cambridge, when Emma E. Chase of No. 20 Circuit street, West Medford, appealed to the court to annul her marriage to one Robert R. J. Murray, whom she later found already had one or more wives when he married her.

That another woman had prior claim to Murray was unknown to the Chase woman, she stated, until the police paid a visit to the house one day and arrested him on a charge of polygamy and failure to provide for his first wife. Lieutenant Kennedy of Somerville, she testified, made the arrest, as near as she could recall.

MILL WORKERS TO FIGHT FALL RIVER CUT

Wage Reduction Unfair and Unwarranted, Says United Textile Union Leader

Fall River, Jan. 6.—The United Textile Workers of America will oppose as unfair and unwarranted the wage reduction of ten per cent, announced by mill owners of this city to take effect January 12, John L. Campos, president of the Doffers' Union, which is affiliated with the United Textile Workers, said in a formal statement today.

President Thomas F. McMahon of the U. T. W., conferred here with Campos and other union leaders.

Declaring that the manufacturers gave notice of the impending wage cut to the Fall River Textile Council, composed of six unions affiliated with the American Federation of Textile Operatives, but not to the United Textile Workers, Campos said his organization would not agree to the reduction.

"There must be proof offered by the manufacturers to us personally that a reduction is necessary," he said. "We think otherwise."

TWO HOLDUPS ON BOSTON STREETS

A youthful bandit held up a pedestrian with a revolver at Broadway near E street, South Boston, early today, and then strolled leisurely around to Chandler and Tremont streets and relieved his second victim of $14.

The descriptions given by the two victims tally, but police apparently have been unable to find any trace of the gunman.

Both holdups were staged in thoroughfares traveled at all hours of the night. They were the first acts of violence committed following the new "war" on banditry declared by Superintendent of Police Michael Crowley.

TAKES MONEY, WALKS AWAY.

Louis Vader of Sachem street, North Weymouth, was walking along Broadway when a youth approached him, calmly shoved the muzzle of a revolver against the pit of his stomach and ordered Vader to throw up his hands.

Vader lost no time in complying. The bandit found $5 in his victim's clothing, took the money and strolled off.

Some time later Fred Derrand of No. 328 Shawmut avenue, South End, was walking on Chandler street at Tremont.

GATHERED IN $14.

A youth approached and asked him for a match.

While Derrand was searching through his pockets the youth drew a revolver.

"Stick them up," he ordered.

The gunman garnered $14 from his victim's pockets and then probably shuffled off home as no more holdups were reported.

Both men described the bandit as being about twenty-five years of age five feet six or seven inches tall, of light complexion and wearing a light overcoat and light hat.

$25,000 BLAZE IN NORTH ATTLEBORO BUILDING

Attleboro, Jan. 6.—The Lafayette building, one of the landmarks of North Attleboro, was ruined by fire today, with an estimated loss of $25,000. Three stores and a lodge hall were located in the building, which is situated a short distance from the centre of the town. A general alarm was sounded and apparatus was summoned from the adjoining villages of Attleboro Falls and Oldtown.

The flames were discovered in the shoe store of Ernest Phillibert and they spread to adjoining stores of E. I. Scott, a grocer, and Edward McGovern, radio and automobile supplies. The lodge halls on the second floor also were damaged by the fire. Cause of the fire is not known.

ANOTHER 'SLAVE GIRL' REVEALED

Girl Sacrifices Legacy for Aged Parents

NEW SLAVE GIRL IS FOUND

Worcester Miss Was Lured to Lonely Farmhouse; Betrayer Sentenced

Worcester, Jan. 7.—A hollow-eyed, sad-faced girl of eighteen years, wanders aimlessly about the walled grounds of an Episcopal institution for wayward girls, near here.

A few months ago, this same girl, rosy-cheeked, vivacious and overflowing with the very joy of living, dreamed of the time when romance and love would bud and blossom for her, making her life complete.

The girl is the daughter of a Worcester business man.

She is another victim of the White Slave ring that has its slimy tentacles spread over Massachusetts, with innocent young girls in almost every neighborhood already in its power or marked as its victims.

SERVING SENTENCE.

So bold and defiant has this White Slave ring become, that parents seeking their daughters who fall in the clutches of the ring, are threatened with death if they appeal to the authorities or interfere with the gang in any way.

A few miles away from where the girl broods over a wrecked and ruined life, Wilrose Martin, well-to-do garage keeper of Marlboro, is in a penal institution serving a two-year sentence.

The jailing of Martin and the placing of his innocent victim in an institution was part of a campaign that is being carried on throughout Massachusetts by the State constabulary and Federal agents to break the power of the White Slave ring.

The young Worcester girl was the pride of her father's home. It was when she was walking along the street she first met Martin, the garage man.

It was not long until the bloom began fading from the young girl's cheeks. A strange, hard expression came into her eyes. Her parents were solicitous and worried about her health.

"It is nothing," she said and tried to laugh the matter off.

FOUND ON FARM.

About the same time the girl began remaining away from home for several days at a time. She had a wide circle of girl friends and her stories that she was staying with these companions, were believed.

Finally, an anonymous telephone message to the father told him that his daughter could be found living in a so-called farm house between Northboro and Marlboro.

The father, trailing his daughter, received a warning that if he made any complaint against the farmhouse he was in danger of death.

In desperation the father appealed to the Worcester police. The farmhouse was out of their jurisdiction and the builder was referred to the State Constabulary.

Promptly upon hearing the father's story, Captain Kimball and a squad of his men swooped down on the place.

They found the girl in the house. Also they found Martin, the garage man.

They found another girl and another man—all under conditions that seemed unbelievable.

The court sent the girl to the Episcopal home.

The Martin "farmhouse" is only one of several the authorities have already cleaned out. Others are under surveillance, and more arrests will be made.

Worcester, alone, has contributed more than a score of girls to the merciless clutches of the White Slave ring within the past few months. Parents of young girls are in constant terror that their loved ones will be the next.

Meanwhile, the authorities are doing what they can to combat the menace with the implements at their disposal.

MORE ARRESTS TO COME.

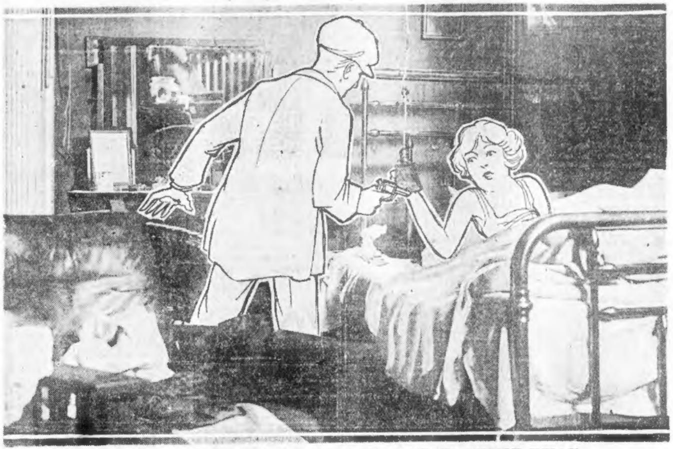
The search for seventeen-year-old Lucielle Farrara, the Rockland, Me., choir girl who is believed in the power of the White Slavers, continues. The girl disappeared from her home just before Christmas and went to Boston. It is known that she was met by men identified with the white slave ring.

A cousin of the girl has appealed to the Springfield police within the past twenty-four hours to renew efforts to find the girl.

"Her mother is heartbroken and in a state of collapse," the cousin told the police.

While a score of clues have been run down, no trace of the missing girl has as yet been unearthed.

'Black Pajama' Girl Vanishes as Police Probe Her Story of 'Chummy Burglar'



HOW "TALKING BANDIT" HELD UP PRETTY BESSIE KELLY

JURY CHARGED BY JUDGE RAYMOND

Judge Robert F. Raymond today charged the jury in the trial in Superior Court of four men charged with conspiring to threaten Victor Searles with intent to extort mony from him.

The defendants are William J. Corcoran, William J. Kelly, William J. Hartnett an dThomas Devine.

Following the charge, defence counsel conferred with the judge in regard to exceptions thtey took to statements in the charge. The jury left the courtroom under guard, to return later, when the case was to be given to them.

Judge Raymond explained in his charge that a conspiracy is a combination of two or more persons to do an illegal act or to do a legal act by illegal means.

"You are not trying these men for extorting money from Searles," he said. "There is no doubt that some one of these men did get $50,000 from Searles. You will be called upon to say whether it was extortion or not."

FATHER CHARGED WITH BEATING INFANT CHILD

Caribou, Me., Jan. 6.—Allen Finnemore, charged with assault upon his two-months'-old baby, was arrested at Washburn on a warrant issued here. The child is not expected to live.

Finnemore will be brought here today for arraignment in Municipal Court. He is a laborer on the Caribou road at Washburn. The child was fussy Friday night and Saturday morning, and, being out of patience, he is alleged to have struck it a blow in the face.

If the child dies, a more serious charge will be made, according to the authorities.

$18,000 FIRE SWEEPS NORTH ATTLEBORO BLOCK

North Attleboro, Jan. 6.—A fire did $18,000 damage in the Hugo Block here. The blaze started in the Ernest Pilliberg shoe store and swept rapidly through the two-story wooden structure. There were three stores on the first floor and a dance hall above.

Cleared in Wife's Death

Middletown, Ct., Jan. 6.—Caspar Schmidt, local photographer, has been found not guilty of criminal negligence in causing the death by a shot-gun wound, Christmas Eve, of his wife, Wilhemina. The verdict was given by a coroner's jury.

Fellow Tenants of Back Bay Model Say They Heard No Sound of "Sleeping Bandit's" Midnight Visit

Police investigation of the story of Bessie Kelley, Back Bay beauty, who claims she was bound, gagged and robbed by an armed bandit she discovered under her bed, developed several new features today.

They were:

Miss Kelley's disappearance. The police do not know where to locate her.

The story of Frances Boyce, who has the adjoining room to Miss Kelley at No. 10 Museum road, that she was up nearly all night with a toothache and heard no noise in Miss Kelley's room.

The fact that the fire escape leading to Miss Kelley's bathroom window passes by the window of the bedroom occupied by Miss Boyce and that the latter saw no one enter or leave by the escape.

WEARS BLACK PAJAMAS.

The story of several occupants of the apartment house that Miss Kelley favored black silk pajamas having a design of Oriental motif and was often seen clad in them.

The fact that Miss Kelley received a long distance telephone call from New York during the afternoon of the day the alleged robbery occurred.

Miss Kelley has occupied the apartment a little more than two months, having sublet it from a man who, the police say, is now in Maine.

"You're a funny kind of crook." Miss Kelley told the bandit, who emerged from beneath her bed, gun in hand, and threatened to kill her.

"Then he took $110 of my money and my $250 diamond ring, choked me a little, gagged me with a handkerchief and tied me to the bed post. Then what do you think he did? He went to sleep."

It all happened in Bessie's apartment on the first floor of the Museum road house, according to the girl's story to the police.

The robbery and the choking and all were bad enough, but goodness—imagine a man impolite enough to go to sleep in your company and leave you all tied up! For Bessie is petite and pretty.

PROVES CHUMMY CROOK.

Here's the gist of the story, as related to the police by Miss Kelley:

"I went home with my cousin and her husband and a gentleman friend. Then we went out and had a little supper. I returned alone and went to bed. A noise awakened me, I flashed on the light and he came out from under the bed and said: 'Don't scream or I'll fill you full of holes!'

"I didn't scream, I was so surprised, and he took the money from my purse on the bureau and chuckled.

"'Most girls would scream in a case like this, but you didn't, did you, kiddo?' he said.

"I begged him to leave me my diamond studded wrist watch and he gave it to me. Then I asked him for my [illegible] and half the money he had taken, so I could pay my rent.

"He said: 'Don't be foolish, kid.' And he laughed at me!

"Then he said: 'I can't go yet, because it's too late and the police might pick me up, so I'll have to stay until the people are going to work in the morning.'

"He sat down in a chair and ate my candy—imagine it—and smoked my cigarettes—imagine that! I told him he was a funny kind of crook and he said: 'Chicago isn't any tougher than Boston, kid.' He kept calling me 'kid.'

AND HE EVEN SNORED!

"He told me all about his other robberies and then he gagged me and lay down on my own bed while I was tied to the bedpost. And he went to sleep—and snored!

"When he woke up about 6 o'clock he took out my gag and I asked him for a drink of water, which he got me. I asked him if he was going to leave me all tied up and he said he must to protect himself. But he said he would call up the janitor and tell him to release me.

"So he went away and he left me only a nickel. I struggled and finally released myself from the bonds and the janitor and his wife came."

SOUTHWICK WOMAN DIES, 100 YEARS OLD

Southwick, Jan. 6. — Mrs. Elizabeth Brace, who celebrated her 100th birthday November 24, died in her home here. She was born in Plainfield, Ct., in 1824, and spent her early life in Providence.

In commenting on her girlhood she often told of her fear of the Narragansett Indians who still lived in that region when she was a girl. She saw the first train to pass over the Boston & Providence Railroad and saw the molding and casting of the first cook stove in Providence.

MALDEN MAN CHARGED WITH THEFT OF $1,274

Theodore Zilman of Malden, a clerk in the Deeding Lumber Company, Melrose, was arraigned in the East Cambridge Superior Criminal Court, charged with the larceny of $1,274 from Fred A. Perkins, head of the concern, by means of false entries in the company accounts. The alleged false entries were made in a period last year from May 1 to August 31, 1924. Zilman pleaded not guilty and was held for trial in bonds of $2,000.

CHILD NEARLY CHOKED BY BELT

Five-year-old Mildred Gordon has discovered that a belt should go around the waist—not the neck. The discovery nearly cost the little girl her life.

Mildred, whose home is at No. 45 Lucerne street, Mattapan, was playing in a room alone. Her mother, Mrs. William Gordon, in an adjoining room, heard strange sounds. She rushed in and found the child nearly strangled to death with a belt wound tightly about her neck. The belt had a buckle of the kind the locks and becomes less easily removed the harder one pulls upon it.

Unable to loosen the belt herself the mother ran out and called in neighbors. The knife that severed the belt cut the child's neck slightly but saved her life.

Mildred is all right now. She has learned her lesson about belts. Experience, she thinks, is rather a crude teacher.

WILL FIGHT BROTHER'S BEQUEST

Says Watertown Contractor Was Incompetent When He Signed Paper

The willingness of a daughter to sacrifice a $5,000 legacy for the sake of her aged parents was revealed when an international contest over the will of the late Benjamin Donisi, Watertown contractor, was begun in Middlesex Probate Court.

The Donisi will disposed of a $9,000 estate by bequeathing half to a sister, Mrs. Jennie Voner of Cambridge, and half to Joseph Donisi, a distant relative of the deceased.

No sonner were the provisions of the will made known to her than Mrs. Voner engaged counsel in behalf of her aged parents Josephine and Dennis Donisi, of Cadppoline, Italy, and preparations were made to break the will

EDISON LIGHT RATE CUT HEARING NEXT THURSDAY

Encouraged by recent cuts in electric light rates in Washington and Brooklyn, users of electricity in and around Boston will be watchful on Thursday of further proceedings before the Department of Public Utilities, at the State House, in the matter of the Boston American's petition for lower rates in this neighborhood.

The hearing will be resumed at 10:30 o'clock. Henry F. Hurlburt, Jr., appearing for the people and Frederick Manley Ives for the Edison Electric Illuminating Company.

OTHERS CUT; NOT HUB.

In Washington the electric light company has been ORDERED to reduce its price for electricity from 10 to 7½ cents per kilowat hour.

In Brooklyn, the Edison Company of that city VOLUNTARILY cut the rate from 8 to 7½ cents a kilowat hour for residential and commercial users.

And in Boston the rate remains firm at 9½ cents.

The Boston American's move for a cut in electric light prices in Boston and other cities and towns supplied by the Edison Company was inaugurated eight years ago, before the Board of Gas & Electric Light Commissioners, since legislated out of existence. The petition has been before the present Public Utilities Department since that board was organized.

In view of the statement of the Edison Illuminating Company of Boston two years ago, declaring its "intention" to chop the Boston rate a half-cent at six-month intervals until a rate of 8 cents would be reached on March 1 of last year—and in view of the company's failure to reach the 8-cent rate, as then promised, Boston will read with interest the statement made by the Edison Company of Brooklyn, announcing a voluntary reduction to 7½ cents per kilowat hour:

BROOKLYN'S GAIN.

"We are able to make this reduction," says the Brooklyn company, "because of lower manufacturing costs and other economies of operation and because of our policy of sharing all benefits with our consumers.

"Our stockholders want only such a reasonable return on their investment as will be sufficient to attract new capital as Brooklyn's growth demands the company's expansion.

"It is now, and it will continue to be, the policy of this company to share voluntarily with the people of Brooklyn every benefit that occurs to it and every saving it can accomplish by the most efficient methods and a devoted spirit of service."

What position does the Boston company take on this matter of saving and "sharing with the consumer?"

At the most recent hearing on this eight-year-old petition, Henry F. Hurlburt, Jr., counsel for the Boston American, questioned President Charles L. Edgar of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company:

Q—So it is fair to say, isn't it, that the stockholders shared pretty handsomely in the great prosperity of 1923?

—Yes.

Q—But the Edison Company hasn't given the customers any of the benefits of that prosperity by any cut in rates, has i ?

A—Since 1922? No.

Q—Now, you would say, would you not, Mr. Edgar, judging from the figures you have just been over, that if 1923 was not the most successful year in the history of the company it certainly was one of the most successful?

A—It was very satisfactory.

Q—Can you think, at the present time, of any other year in the history of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston when you had such increases? Ending up with an increase in "income available for dividends and depreciation" of 28 per cent.?

A—I have recollection of one year, before the war, when the returns, I think, in percentages, were even higher. But it is a very hazy recollection. * * * I will say this, that in 1922 we probably did not figure that 1923 would do as well as it did.

GREATEST PROSPERITY.

Mr. Hurlburt's examination of the president of the Edison company revealed that that corporation has been enjoying a period of unparalleled prosperity, described by President Edgar in one of his official communications as "a record-breaker."

All of which makes interesting the letter written on February 6, 1922, by Frederick Manley Ives, general counsel for the Edison company, to Arthur D. Hill, representing the city of Boston, and the late Grenville S. MacFarland, legal representative of Mr. W. R. Hearst in New England.

That letter, never before printed in full, read as follows:

Boston, Feb. 6, 1922.

The proposition made by you at luncheon Friday has been submitted, and as I anticipated cannot be accepted.

You have named a rate which the company hoped it might approximate at the end of three years, if it obtained increased revenue from the street lighting and other conditions were favorable, but you have required the adoption of that rate in a much shorter time and insisted that there be no increase in the street lighting.

Such a radical cut as you propose, if possible at all, must be made gradually. A cut in price means a reduction in revenue unless and until there is an increased use. Conceding that the company's revenue is now such that the company is able to make some reduction in its maximum rate, even if the business did not increase, yet it must look to increased business for the justification of a substantial cut.

Increased business requires additional investment and the expenditure of new money. If new money is to be obtained economically, whether it be by borrowing or by stock issues, the earnings must be sufficient to pay dividends and something over for replacement and contingencies. We have no hesitation in saying that if we met your terms we would be jeopardizing our ability to obtain new money for the large amount of new business which alone would make a substantial reduction in the maximum rates possible.

As you have expressed yourselves as having made this most recent proposition as an ultimatum, and we cannot meet it, it is apparent that settlement is not possible. Accordingly, what I have further to say need not be treated as a counter offer, BUT AS A STATEMENT OF THE COMPANY'S INTENTION, to which I think you are entitled in view of the negotiations.

The (Public Utilities) Department has authorized the company to amortize the taxes which have been discussed between us. I feel that as a result of the pending proceedings the street lighting rates in Boston will be increased and the company permitted to charge its regular rates to the customers now holding contracts. I am assuming also that the company will be successful in defending the present suits.

Relying on these assumptions, the company proposes to reduce its maximum rate to 10 cents on March 1 and to 9½ cents on September 1 and believes that it will be able by further step of a half-cent at six months periods to reduce to 8 cents by March 1, 1924—8 cents being the equivalent of the existing New York rate of 7 cents, plus coal clause when consideration is given to the fact that the New York company does not furnish lamps.

Whether the company will be ultimately successful in carrying out the latter part of this program depends upon future developments, business conditions, and, of course, upon the action of the (public utilities) department on the pending petitions.

Regretting our ability to come to an agreement I am, yours very truly, (Signed)

FREDERICK MANLEY IVES.

WHY NOT LAST MARCH?

WHY wasn't the rate cut last March to 8 cents, as promised in this letter, written by Mr. Ives with the knowledge and approval of President Edgar?

WHY are the householders, offices and smaller merchants of Boston still paying 9½ cents.

WHY doesn't "Boston Edison" show a little of the spirit of "Brooklyn Edison" and share its acknowledged economics and admitted prosperity with its customers?

We shall have more light on the situation after Thursday's session of an inquiry which probably holds the State House record for longevity.

SOCIALISTS TRY FOR HARVARD 'CIRCLE'

The sacred precincts of Harvard University are threatened with Red invasion.

According to the Crimson, the Harvard daily paper, agents of the Socialist party are now at work in Cambridge, endeavoring to establish a so-called "Circle" among the Harvard students.

Under the name of the Young People's Socialist League with headquarters at No. 64 Pemberton square, a drive is being made among all the college students of Boston, in an effort to win converts to Socialism.

There is said to be one "Circle" or group in Boston at present, composed of students from all the schools, but the organizers hope to get an individual "circle" composed of Harvard men alone.

According to talk on the campus, the active workers in the movement are members of the two so-called radical clubs of the university—the Liberal Club and the La Follette-Wheeler Club.

One Arne J. Parker of Fitchburg is in charge of the student drive at Harvard and has announced that the Socialists seek gradual evolution by education and a general opposition to all communistic principles.

The accident occurred at the height of the rush hour

R. I. CARMEN TO OFFER PLAN BY VAHEY

Boston Union's Attorney Will Submit Draft of Arbitration Agreement

Providence, Jan. 6—An arbitration agreement, drawn up by James H. Vahey of Boston, will be presented by representatives of the local Street Car Men's Union at a coming conference with the United Electric Railways Company.

Mr. Vahey, who is attorney for the Boston Street Car Men's Union, will act as legal representative for the Providence labor men in the arbitration proceedings.

This announcement was made following the resumption of conferences after a temporary suspension two weeks ago. Union representatives asserted the discussion had been taken up where it had been left off at the end of the last conference. It was more or less of a general nature on different points of the new wage and working agreement, in an effort to settle as many of them as possible and reduce the number of questions to be arbitrated to a minimum, they stated.

May Succeed Stone

ARTHUR P. RUGG

Bay State Chief Justice mentioned as possible successor of Attorney-General Stone, who has been elevated to the Supreme Court of the United States by President Coolidge.

RUGG TALKED OF AS SUCCESSOR TO STONE

The name of Chief Justice Arthur P. Rugg of the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court is being prominently mentioned in Washington in connection with the office of Attorney-General, made vacant by the elevation of Harlan Fiske Stone to the Supreme Court of the United States.

While Mr. Stone's successor in the President's Cabinet will not be named until the Senate confirms the appointment of Mr. Stone to the Supreme Bench, Washington is discussing the coming Cabinet appointment in lively fashion.

The Cabinet appointment rests entirely with the President and it is known that he long has held a feeling of high regard for his friend, Justice Rugg.

There is a question, however, as to whether or not Justice Rugg would quit the Massachusetts bench to enter the Cabinet, a position which at best is not good for more than four years.

Other names being mentioned in connection with the Cabinet vacancy include Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, Federal District Judge Dietrich of Idaho, and former Ambassador Warren of Michigan, who represented this country for some years at Mexico City.

Mr. Stone will take the place on the Supreme Bench made vacant by the retirement of Justice McKenna, who has resigned on account of his advanced years.

The shoe company has given him employment, although not in his old position.

FOREIGN POWER BIDS FOR U. S. STEAM PLANE

Inventor With Official Tryout Due Soon Will Not Consider Offer

New York, Jan. 6.—H. Crossland Pfaff, mechanical engineer of Sterling, Ill., the inventor of the Crossland system of high-pressure steam-power plant for airplanes, said today that he had been besieged all day by seekers of information.

Direct word from Washington had been that his steampower plant would be put into aviation use at McCook Field, Dayton, O., at the earliest possible time.

It was learned that European governments and private business interests had already made overtures to Pfaff. An emissary of the Italian government is on the way to Naples by steamship with full description of the power plant.

The Italians are interested in the 100 per cent. efficiency combustion oil byproduct burner which makes the compact power plant possible. It is desired for automobiles and heating plants in Italy.

A British government official and several British engineers are seeking the general rights for England, but Pfaff said on this head:

"I shall never dispose of the airplane power plant rights to any foreign power. I shall hold them for the American government. The United States is first, but I hope there will be no repetition of the Lewis gun situation."

Pfaff said all warfare in future has been resolved into a question of scientific combat. The airplane has become a major weapon of offence and defence.

ARRESTS IN CAR EXPLOSION TO BE MADE SOON

Neal Will Prosecute in Municipal Court; O'Brien Seeks Indictments

Indictments will be sought while prosecutions will also be brought in the Municipal court by agents of the State Fire Marshal's office in connection with the explosion of moving picture film scraps in a trolley car in the Tremont street subway.

State Fire Marshal Neal announced that his department would bring the prosecutions in the Municipal court, but refused to make public the names of the defendants.

The indictments will be sought by the District-Attorney who will present the facts to the Grand Jury which is now in session.

The authorities, after careful investigation, have determined that the explosion which endangered the lives of sixty passengers and injured twenty-seven, was caused by the explosion of celluloid scraps, carried in a bag by Phares Shirley, seventy-year-old employe of a brush factory, who placed the bag near an electric heater in the car.

Shirley, the most seriously injured of the twenty-seven, is still at the Haymarket Relief Hospital, but will recover.

TEFERETH ISRAEL TO MARK 50TH BIRTHDAY

The 50th anniversary of the Tefereth Israel will be celebrated by members of the organization tomorrow evening with a reception, dinner and dance at Convention Hall. The organization found its origin in the North End of Boston at a time when many Jewish immigrants made their homes there. The members were banded together to aid the immigrants and also to care for their own needy and sick, and to insure religious burial for the dead.

After the organization grew in numbers a family physician was appointed. The continued growth made it necessary to build a chapel in its cemetery, which was done more than fifteen years ago. During its existence the organization has paid a very large sum for sick and burial benefits to its members.

WORCESTER LAWYER AND TEACHER SECRETLY WED

Worcester, Jan. 6.—Joseph W. Foley, who was graduated from Boston University Law School last June, and Miss Mildred Irene Donohue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Donohue of North Grafton a teacher in Grafton-street Grammar School of Worcester, were married in New York, January 26, 1924, according to an announcement made by the parents of the bride.

Society in Busy Round Today---Parties for 2 Debs and a Concert

By BETTY ALDEN

THERE is a fine high fare today in the world of Vanity Fair. Two functions of consequence star the horizon of the debutante set, and for their elders there is the first of Miss Terry's concerts.

Mr. and Mrs. John Noble of the University City are presenting their bud daughter, Miss Jane Noble, this evening at a large dance in Buckingham Hall. Jane is one of the girls taken into the professional fold of the Junior League, and had a preliminary fling at social gayeties last Summer at the Shore. She and some other smart sub-debutantes in that charmed region were much in the picture at the garden fete staged in the William Amory Gardner estate by the Children's Hospital Clubs.

Buckingham Hall is a picturesque setting for a dance, with its old English baronial-like interior. Evergreens and gay flowers will add bits of color and the buds—in gay new frocks just out of their wrappings—will dazzle the eyes of their cavaliers. The dance is the first bud affair since the holidays, a sort of re-assembling of the youthful sets for the late season's gayeties.

MRS. J. MONTGOMERY SEARS is entertaining this noon at a luncheon in honor of Miss Josephine Choate, her youthful kinswoman and one of the season's more important buds. She is the daughter of the Charles F. Choates of Marlboro street and Southboro, and her debut interests her many relatives, the Burnetts, Searses, the Crosbys and the Choates, all members of Boston's aristocracy.

Mrs. Sears, a grande dame of much pre-eminence, occupies one of those stately mansions in Arlington street overlooking the Gardens. She has a great artistic talent for music and drawing, and her intimates spend many a delightful half hour in her town house studio. Then there is a country place in Southboro, that lovely little inland town where various of the families have large places. Mrs. Sears is much enamored with the charms of Bermuda, and often of a Winter departs for a sojourn in the Summer Isles. She is one of the smart sponsors for Miss Julia Terry's mid-Winter concerts, the first of which is today at the Vendome.

MISS TERRY and her concerts are an institution in the artistic calendar of happenings which take so large a place with the erudite. Clara Larsen, the Norwegian pianiste, and A. Roberts Lunger, of local fame, will share honors in the program. The sponsor list for these concerts reads like a transcript of the Social Register. Besides Mrs. Sears there are Mesdames W. Scott Fitz, T. Morris Murray, George Lee, Alden A. Thorndike and Miss Fanny Mason and many another of like high distinction.

MISS MARY WELD

One of the hostesses who entertained at the Senior supper dance. She is one of Boston's best known young women and the possessor of a large fortune, a petite blonde and altogether charming.

MRS. ARTHUR BELL is in town for a week or so and is renewing the many friendships of her Marion Fenno days, when she led the field in various ways. She skates beautifully, plays tennis with almost professional aplomb and led the financial fortunes of Ellis Memorial to fine heights with the skating carnivals she staged at the Arena. She was the centre of attraction at the last senior supper dance and looked every inch the handsome young matron in her ball gown of silvery gray metal cloth with soft gray fur. She is the daughter of the Edward N. Fennos of Beacon street. Since her marriage, a large Trinity Church affair of a year or more ago, she and Mr. Bell have made their home in Pittsburgh.

ALTHOUGH the calendar shows Winter still with us, ardent yachtsmen are visioning already future triumphs to be scored when the racing season opens. Mr. Gordon Chickering Prince, who married Miss Anna Agassiz, daughter of the Rodolphe Agassizes, is one of the sporting clans for whom the sea has a potent call. He is the new skipper of a forty-footer which he calls the Carmita. The Princes are prominent in the North Shore set which rides to hounds up Hamilton-Wenham way and entertains brilliantly during the hunting season. This Winter they are at No. 290 Beacon street.

AND apropos of sport, the young women of the fashionable world who go in for tennis are playing brilliantly just now out at the Longwood Cricket Club courts. Miss Eleonora Sears, Miss Isabelle Mumford, Miss Polly Palfrey, Mrs. Roger Griswold, Mrs. J. Lewis Bremer, Mrs. Samuel Felton and Mrs. Norman White, Jr., are feminine lights who shine alike in the ballroom and on the courts. Miss Sears and Miss Mumford have many a win to their credit and are as well known at Wimbledon and in the South of France as in this country. Miss Polly Palfrey, daughter of the John Palfreys, and one of the season's debutantes, is a youthful player of much promise.

Society Notes

MISS BARBARA REGISTER has been spending a week or so in New York and thereabouts as the guest of her sister, Mrs. Geraldyn L. Redmond, who entertained at a small luncheon recently when Miss Register's engagement to James Bogert Tailer, Jr., was announced. Mr. Tailer is a New Yorker and Miss Register's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Albert Register, who have homes both in Boston and in Philadelphia. The engagement will, in all probability, be a short one.

Miss Pauline Cabot, daughter of the Handasyd Cabots of Newbury street and Dublin, N. H., is gathering all sorts of laurels for her ice skating. She is one of the talented members of the Skating Club, and she and Mr. Nat Niles, another star of that aggregation, are delighting the Tuxedo Park colony with their skill. Miss Cabot, with her parents and brother, Handasyd Cabot, Jr., have recently been abroad for a protracted stay.

Miss Sally Robbins, debutante daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William Robbins, spoke yesterday at the graduates meeting of the Winsor Club out at the Winsor School. Miss Robbins graduated from that exclusive school in 1922 and then spent a year abroad in study. She told of her experiences and Miss Margaret Allen, another Winsor graduate, told of her Girl Guide work at the camp in England last Summer.

Drug Evil Seen as World Peril

By O. D. TOLISCHUS

Special Cable to the Hearst Newspapers.

Berlin, Jan. 6.

"THE rapid spread of the drug evil is one of the biggest dangers and its extermination one of the biggest problems confronting the world today."

This declaration came from President Moeller of the Evangelical Church League of Germany, one of the highest church officials in Germany. He continued:

"Mere legal control has proved insufficient. The church, as a rule, is unable to reach the classes from which the drug addicts are recruited. Only the limitation of the output of drugs at the source, where the raw materials are produced, to an amount absolutely necessary for medical purposes, can put an effective stop to the evil."

Dr. Moeller gave the unreserved backing of the German church to the American plan for limiting the drug output as proposed at the Geneva conference. He attributes the spread of the drug habit to the nervous exhaustion and the upsetting of the moral balance caused by the war. He continued:

"Drugs have become a deadly menace to health and morals throughout the world. In spite of the most stringent legal measures—sometimes, I think, almost because of them—drugs are sold openly on streets, in railway waiting rooms and other public places. I am speaking, of course, of Germany now, but conditions are parallel elsewhere.

"Unfortunately the church cannot do much in fighting this evil. The drug users usually come from two classes—the extremely rich, and the underworld. Neither of these two classes pay much attention to what the church says.

"The general run of our population which works and produces is healthy and sound and free from this evil. For the other two classes, only the actual physical impossibility to get drugs will do any good. The only way to create this impossibility is to cut down the supply to what is absolutely necessary for the use of physicians.

"But this aim can be achieved only by international agreement, since no country can isolate itself from the drug smuggler."

BRITAIN SEEKS DEBT PARLEY IN MARCH

Paris, Jan. 6 (A.P.).—Plans for an interallied debt conference at Brussels next March, to which the United States probably would be invited to send a delegate, are declared to have been forulated by Winston Churchill, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, arrived here this evening at the head of the British delegation to the conference of allied finance ministers, which opens tomorrow.

The French delegation will be headed by Finance Minister Clementel. M. Seydoux of the Foreign Office will be his principal aide. Other members of the delegation are Aron, one of the French experts who helped the Dawes plan; Ferdinand Buisson, director of the Cabinet Ministry of Finance, and Pierre [illegible], an expert of the financial problems of peace.

The Belgian delegation feels it is practically impossible to liquidate the European war debts without coming to an arrangement with the United States.

EXHIBIT A, UNION SUIT, WAS ON THE SUSPECT

Salem, Jan. 6.—Walter Blake and Frank Girard, both of this city, in court today were held in $1,000 each for the grand jury by Judge Sears. They were charged with breaking and entering and larceny.

It developed they were charged with breaking into a livery stable and stealing sweaters, underwear and other clothing from a pedler's wagon owned by Jacob Weiner.

It developed that Girard wore one of the missing union suits when he appeared in court, identification being made by Weiner.

Girard admitted he took the union suit, but said he did it "in good faith," leaving his own behind. The latter was somewhat the worse for wear.

Lewes, Del., Jan. 6.—Inspection of the sunken hull of the Clyde liner Mohawk, burned to the water's edge near here after safely landing her passengers, has shown that the ship can be salvaged, according to company officials today. The ship was sunk by opening her sea valves in order to extinguish the blaze, which baffled efforts of the crew to check it. to school, when the front doorbell rang. On answering, she found a man about twenty-two years old, five feet seven inches tall, wearing a cap and light colored ulster, the collar of which was turned up.

Before the woman had an opportunity to ask what was wanted the man threw a handful of salt in her face and then forced his way into the house. Closing the door he dragged the woman to the kitchen, where he choked her and, placing one hand over her mouth, attempted to attack her.

Mrs. Pussard fought strenuously, kicking and attempting to bite her assailant. The couple battled all over the kitchen, overturning chairs and breaking a table. At length Mrs. Pussard managed to free her mouth and screamed.

The youth fled, and according to neighbors, ran down Peabody street.

When Patrolman Johnson arrived at the Pussard house he found the woman in a semi-conscious condition on the floor, her throat bearing the marks of fingers.

neighbors rushed through the house and opened all the windows.

In the bedroom of Mrs. Forget they found her and Roger unconscious in their bed. For two hours the physician and the police with a pulmotor worked over Mrs. Forget and the boy before they were brought back to consciousness.

A leaky gas main was found leading into the house. The gas worked its way along the main into the cellar and then up through the house. If Mrs. Robert had slept another hour police say all three would have probably been dead.

Girl Quits Fight for Seat Held by Late Brother

MISS HELEN J. CANTY

Miss Helen J. Canty, assistant secretary to Congressman George Holden Tinkham, has decided not to be a candidate for the seat in the House of Representatives made vacant by the death of her brother, Representative William A. Canty, who had the unusual honor of being elected to office after his death.

Miss Canty had been assured the united support of the voters of Ward 15, Roxbury. Her decision to remain out of the special election next month is due chiefly to the fact that she believes that in her present position with Congressman Tinkham she will be able to do more for ex-service men than she would as a member of the General Court.

MacGRATH HOME, SAYS HE WIRED FROM CHICAGO

Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 6.—An incorrect transcription of a telegram he sent home, on his arrival in Chicago Saturday, on an unexpected business mission, was the cause of the furore over the sudden disappearance Friday of H. Faulder MacGrath, it was announced after his return to the home of his brother, Harold MacGrath, the novelist.

MacGrath explained he wired home upon his arrival in Chicago it was possible he would be delayed a day or two. A few hours later the message was returned to him, he said, and on the envelope was a notation from which he discovered the telegram had been sent out McGrath instead of MacGrath and it did not reach its destination.

told police that his wife returned home last night in what he thought was a drunken condition. She undressed for bed and then, without warning, it is alleged, threw a red hot cover from the stove at her husband.

BATTLES WITH HUSBAND.

Renzy attempted to subdue her and a nineteen-year-old daughter, Alice, known as the "Polish Belle of Lynn," stepped between them only to be struck by a chair in the hands of her crazed mother.

The insane woman then seized some matches from a shelf, rushed into the bedroom in which four children were asleep in bed, and before the others could subdue her had set fire to the bed clothes.

While Renzy beat out the flames his crazed wife rushed to the street. Three motormen returning from work attempted to apprehend her, but she alluded them, making her way swiftly towards the river. At the rixer's edge she was caught by Patrolman Feinberg.

Mrs. Renzy is being held by the police for observation. Insanity experts wil lattempt to determine whethter her crazed actions resulted from drink.

The Reuzy home is at No. 9½ River street.

HOLDUP MEN SHOOT BANK PRESIDENT'S SON

Pittsburgh, Jan. 6.—Hold-up men today fired upon and wounded John W. Sands, the son of Lawrence A. Sands, president of the First National Bank, when he ran to call for help after a demand for $25,000 had been made upon his father as he was leaving his home in fashionable Squirrel Hill.

Three men lined the family and servants up against the wall. The younger Sands watched his chance and when the hold-up men turned their backs made a break for the door. Five shots were fired, one bullet striking him in the left side.

buckle; Pearl White, Lowell Sherman and Crane Wilbur, all screen stars; Mrs. Fay Mantell Eisenberg and Ebba Andrus McCarthy, an actress. The decree of Mrs. Eisenberg against Lester W. Eisenberg, formerly connected with the corporation counsel's office in New York, was vacated on the same grounds as that of Nina Wilcox Putnam's.

"Divorce for certain causes has long been granted in this State," said Governor Pothier. "These causes have not been altered for many years. Neither have modes of procedure.

"In recent years, however, the discovery that non-residents at times were taking fraudulent advantage of our laws has called particular attention to a procedural weakness. The legitimate privacy with which divorces now can be had is an incentive to dishonesty. In divorce cases generally no such incentive is needed because both parties want or are satisfied to be divorced.

"Fraud, in ordinary litigation, must run the gauntlet of the court and opposing counsel. In divorce cases the court gets little aid from the parties in ferreting out collusion or perjury. The problem is how to handle applicants for divorce without injustice to meritorious cases and with the greatest obstruction to collusive or dishonest ones.

CALLS FOR CHANGES.

"I therefore believe that evidence in all divorce cases should be given in open court unless the court, for reason, makes a special order to the contrary. The number of special masters in divorce cases should be limited. They should have more power than that of mere listeners as at present. Such changes can and I hope will be speedily made."

The Governor suggested further that as a means of discouraging divorces, the parties be brought together in an informal way prior to a legal trial. He suggested a domestic relations court or a special assistant attorney general to fulfill such a function for wayward married couples.

Prompt payment of obligations incurred by the State because of the deadlock in the last Legislature was urged by the Governor. He stated the first duty of the new General Assembly should be the adoption of emergency appropriation bills to meet the unpaid obligations, consisting of wages of employes, work performed and materials and merchandise purchased. He also asked the passage of remedial legislation to make impossible a recurrence of such a situation.

One of the features of the inauguration ceremonies was the entrance in single file into the chamber of the House of Representatives of the twenty Republican Senators who went into self-imposed exile at Rutland, Mass.

The Senators, who returned to Providence Saturday, were given an ovation as they filed into the chamber where both branches of the General Assembly were in joint session.

The Coast Artillery band struck up: "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," and the exiles were formally welcomed back to Rhode Island by the newly-made governor.

With the governor those inducted into office were Lieutenant-Governor Nathaniel W. Smith, Secretary of State Ernest L. Sprague, Attorney General Charles Sisson and State Treasurer Richard W. Jennings, all Republicans.

"Conditions in Rhode Island at this time make imperative the early adoption of needed legislation in order promptly to restore orderly operation of the departments of the state, and that we may re-establish Rhode Island's credit standing within and without the borders of our Commonwealth," Governor Pothier said.

HITS PROPERTY RULE.

Governor Pothier recommended that the Legislature approve a constitutional amendment whereby the property qualification would be abolished as a prerequisite to voting for elective offices in cities.

He proposed the appointment of bi-partisan committees to study Senate reapportionment and the redistricting of the House of Representatives, and urged that legislative steps be taken to create an efficient State constabulary and a motor patrol to regulate traffic on State highways.

Harry Thaw Finds Fighter-Secretary Scarce Article

Baltimore, Jan. 6.—Harry Thaw is finding his task of getting a secretary to his liking a much larger one than he expected. He declared he has rejected 200 applicants in the city and is much disgusted with the crop. The men are too "lady-like," he declares. What he desires is a fighter, he says.

said that as head of the Mayors' Club he had been delegated to appear before the department and oppose the proposed increase until such time as the company had established its need of it.

APPEAR FOR CITY.

Appearing with Mayor Curley in opposition were Corporation Counsel Sullivan and his assistant, Samuel Silverman. They will act as counsel for the opponents of the increase during the entire hearing.

Several Representatives said they were neutral; they were seeking facts, and stood ready to abide by the decision of the department.

A. H. Ferguson of the Board of Commerce of New Bedford and A. H. Saulnier of the South End Merchants' Association of the same city, declared the proposed increase one for the consideration of financial experts and said they were present to learn the facts.

Morris J. Duryea, Greenfield Selectman and member of the Chamber of Commerce, said he was open-minded on the case.

"We believe that within your body lies the power to justly decide the question," he said. "The telephone company may be entitled to it, and, if it is, we feel you will grant the increase. If not, we believe you will reject it."

George H. Stetson declared that Sharon was neutral.

Mayor Curley declared:

"We do not contend the company is not entitled to the increase, but we do oppose the increase until the company proves its need of one."

BACKS CURLEY.

Selectman Mitchell of Natick said his town was "from Missouri" until the company proved its need. "I stand squarely behind the Mayor of Boston," he declared.

At the hearings next month the phone company will be represented by Ralph A. Stewart, George A. Grant and Charles S. Pierce, with Stewart in charge of the presentation of evidence.

Under present laws two members of the board must be present at every hearing unless both sides waive the rule.

Corporation Counsel Sullivan said he expected the phone company to refuse at the hearings all of the information he will request within a few days. This data, he said, will be necessary for an intelligent handling of the case.

Chairman Atwill suggested that Sullivan and Stewart get together before the public hearings begin.

HOPES TO WIN.

Mr. Stewart said the presentation of the phone company's case should not take more than 20 weeks and that possibly it could be completed within 15 weeks if not more than one or two attorneys entered into cross-examination.

At the conclusion of the hearing Mayor Curley said he expected to "end the job of being Mayor" by January of next year and that he hoped the case would be completed by that time and that he could win it.

Someone in the crowd shouted, "You're going to!"

the garage door, he drove in and had started to get out of his sedan, when a gun was stuck into his back.

MAKE ESCAPE IN AUTO.

The gunman commanded Symonds to put up his hands and announced that money was wanted.

In reply Symonds lashed out backward with his foot, slammed the door of his car, and, drawing a pistol from his pocket, fired through the window.

The bandit ran, whereupon the poolroom proprietor gave chase, firing as he did so. Outside the garage the gunman was joined by a companion, evidently a lookout, and both returned Symond's fire, he told the police. Then they leaped into an automobile and disappeared.

ARRESTED IN HOSPITAL.

Sometime later Freeman appeared at the office of Dr. William Flynn, on Main street, seeking treatment for a bullet wound in the jaw.

Dr. Flynn sent him to the Homeopathic Hospital and notifed the police. Chief Rogers went to Newburyport and arrested Freeman, who, he said, would appear in local court this afternoon, the wound being superficial.

For weeks police sought the missing child. Marshall and the boy finally were located in Cleveland, O

NEARING HOME STRETCH IN $1,000 CROSSWORD PUZZLE RACE

Two Little Hints to Help You in Test for the Boston American's Great Prize

Cable dispatches tell us that over in Paris they're up to their knees in cross-word puzzles. In other words, the girls are wearing their roll-em-ups with a la checkerboard designs.

From all quarters of New England comes the report that fans are up to their necks in Boston American cross-ward puzzles. In other words, they've solved the first seventeen puzzles in the American cross-word drive toward the finish.

Don't slacken up the pace just because the first half of the course has been passed.

Keep tackling each day's puzzle as it comes along. Remember, this contest has a short trail with a happy ending. Prizes of $1,000. And in cash.

NO 18 IN TODAY.

Puzzle No. 18 appears today. There's nothing stumpy about either the senior checkerboard or the junior layout.

Seniors, there's something in your brain-teaser about the slang word for greenbacks that's coming to you at the close of the contest. It has a dollar sign. Keep chasing for that word and the puzzle that follows and you'll reach the long-green end of the game.

What may tickle the cerebral creases of the seniors is that word referring to a big bird long extinct. Irvin Cobb once wrote a story and gave it the title of "The Great ——." It was a corking story and had to do with a once-famous actor who returned to an abandoned, ramshackle of a theatre many years later to relive the old days.

The junior set contains a quintet of figures. Easy to fit in. Then, again, it has something to do with a rather disturbing thing that volcanoes are given to oftimes.

Now, with these hefty boosts today's sets should turn out to be as easy as trying to solve a puzzle on the knee-high variety they are wearing in Paris.

TWO WEEKS TO GO.

The Boston American Cross-Word Puzzle Contest has a little over two weeks to go. If you've held to it this far, keep working away at each day's puzzle. Don't let anything leave you at the wayside. Your chance of coming in for a slice of that $1,000 purse is as good as the other fellow's or the other girl's.

Keep putting away your puzzles as you solve them from day to day in a neat stack and hold them until the last lap has been run. In the meantime have your letter of 200 words telling why you like cross-word puzzles written and ready to be sent along with the solutions, sixteen puzzles hence.

Puzzle away!
Jot away!
Put away!
Pocket away—one of the prizes from that $1,000 purse.

TRAFFIC JUDGE HOLDS CROSS WORD COURT

Interrupts Prisoners' Solutions Long Enough to Pronounce Sentence

New York, Jan. 6. — Magistrate Earl Smith put on his left shoe first, or something. He was feeling cross when he walked to the bench in Traffic Court and a cross time he had.

What he saw was rows of bent heads—bald, lean, fat, red, oblong and black. Every one was buried in a dictionary and hands seemed to be scribbling on paper.

"Are all these people making complaints?" asked the magistrate of Court Attendant John Sullivan.

"Negative in two letters" answered that worthy without looking up.

"Ah, I see. It's the cross-word labyrinth in six letters beginning with p," said the magistrate.

"Attention!" shouted Attendant Sullivan.

"That's it," squealed a feminine voice from the back of the room. "A nine-letter word meaning fixed gaze. Thanks, Judge."

"John Smietenka, I sentence you for speeding," said Magistrate Smith to the first prisoner.

"How much, Judge?"

"Two words with an aggregate of seven letters, beginning with 'ten' and ending with 'days,'" declared his honor.

"Ah, now I'll have a chance to catch up with all the prize cross-word puzzle contests," said Smietenka. "It's great to be jailed once in a while."

Mary Minter's Cook Sues for $50,000

MARY MILES MINTER

If it were not for the fact that it is verified by the filing in Pasadena, Cal., of a $50,000 damage suit—Katherine Herlihy vs. Mary Miles Minter and Dr. Raymond B. Mixell—this story of the movie star and the servant problem would be unbelievable.

It concerns the cook who couldn't quit.

When Miss Minter of the movies fired her cook last April, the cook, who is opinionated, refused to get out. She liked the view from her room in Mary's Pasadena bungalow. She liked mingling with the movie crowd. She even liked to cook.

Mary summoned to her assistance Dr. Mixell, the gentleman to whom she was once reported engaged, and Dr. Mixell tried his hand at firing the cook.

It was the Pasadena police department which finally succeeded in firing Mary's cook. Judge Russell Morton of the Police Court sent two of his men to do the job. They did it thoroughly. The cook was taken to the Pasadena jail and locked up on a charge of willful and malicious cooking, or something like that.

Now, claiming that her character as person and cook has been irreparably damaged by Miss Minter's action, the cook has sued for $50,000 for defamation of character, naming her mistress and Dr. Mixell.

Miss Minter has selected a coast firm of four lawyers to defend the case.

AUTOIST HELD IN SOMERVILLE DEATH CASE

Another Defendant Freed of Blame in Christmas Fatality

Probable cause was found by Judge Malcolm E. Sturtevant in Somerville District Court in the case of Timothy Fay of 38 Crafts street, Newton, charged with operating an automobile so as to endanger the lives and safety of the public, on Washington street, Christmas eve, and he was held in $500 for the Middlesex County Grand Jury.

Fay was operating an auto that knocked down John J. Murphy, 58 years, of 45A Dane street, causing injuries from which Murphy died Christmas day at the Cambridge Municipal Hospital.

Anthony W. Di Ceccia, 19 years of 46 Medford street, Somerville, was found not guilty of operating an automobile, so as to endanger the lives and safety of the public, on Somerville avenue on Christmas eve and was rodered discharged. Di Ceccia was operating an automobile that struck ten year old Alex Latharus of 88 Winter street, Cambridge, causing injuries which resulted in his death on Christmas Day in the Somerville Hospital.

The case of Ronald D. Nicolai, twenty-two years of age, of No. 25 Grant street, Somerville, charged with operating an automobile on Broadway, Somerville, on New Year's eve, so as to endanger the lives and safety of the public, will be tried today in the Somerville Court. Nicolai was operating a truck on New Year's eve, which struck Miss Ida Spencer of Brookline on Broadway, near Arthur street, Wintre Hill, causing injuries which resulted in her death on New Year's day in the Somerville Hospital.

Anthony D. Addessio, thirty-seven years, of Maple place, Needham, was found guilty of drunkenness and operating a machine while under the influence of liquor on Washington street early last Friday morning. The first charge was filed and he was fined $100 on the second charge. The police say his machine was in collision with another automobile on Washington, near Beacon street, Somerville.

PASTOR HIGHT BEGINS LIFE SENTENCE

Mt. Vernon, Ill., Jan. 6.—Lawrence M. Hight, former clergyman, convicted with Mrs. Elsie Sweetin of the poisoning of her husband, Wilford, has begun his term of life imprisonment at the Southern Illinois Penitentiary at Menard.

Mrs. Sweetin is to begin serving a 35-year term today.

Sheriff Grant Holcomb, who accompanied Hight, said crowds assembled at every depot along the route. Several times Hight, who seemed to be enjoying the notice he was attracting, stood up so that the curious could get a better view of him.

"I didn't give any of that poison to Wilford Sweetin myself," the sheriff quoted Hight. "I wanted to see Mrs. Sweetin before I felt Mount Vernon to ask her what she meant by saying she wished that I had been hanged."

Hight had requested an interview with Mrs. Sweetin at the jail, but she refused to see him.

"That is a fine way of her to talk about wishing me to hang when she started it all," the sheriff said Hight told him.

HUSBAND ASKS $50,000 AS ALIENATION BALM

New Bedford, Jan. 6.—Louis F. Degagner of New Bedford told the story on which he bases his claim for damages in the sum of $50,000, charging that Albert Clero of this city a former proprietor of the old Bristol House, has alienated the affections of his wife, Mrs. Laura Degagner.

Mr. and Mrs. Degagner were married in Fall River in December, 1908, when Degagner made his home in Dartmouth, conducting a small farm there and doing part-time work as a carpenter in New Bedford.

According to Mr. Degagner, he has not seen his wife since March, 1922, when she jumped from an automobile in Fall River while returning to New Bedford following a chase in which Mr. Degagner alleges, he caught his wife and the defendant together in a farmhouse in Portsmouth, R. I.

Fair Co-Workers to Wed Here in Double Romance

DOLLY CHANNIN

GERTRUDE DANA

Miss Channin and Miss Gertrude Dana of the Council of Jewish Juniors announce their engagements to Murray Winer of Boston and Meyer Kestnbaum of Chicago, respectively.

Dan Cupid has hit the mark again. This time, two Boston Jewish girls.

Dolly Channin and Gertrude Dana, ardent workers of the Council of Jewish Juniors, the Hub's representative organization of the younger Jewish contingent, have announced their engagements to Murray Winer of Boston and Meyer Kestnbaum of Chicago, respectively.

Since her graduation from Wellesley, Miss Dana has religiously given her services to charitable work and has proved an untiring and devoted worker for the Jewish Federated Charities, the Council of Jewish Women, the National Council of Jewish Juniors and other organizations. For two years she served as the Council's first lady president.

As far as Jewish activities are concerned her marriage in June will prove a loss for Boston and a gain for the "Windy City." She met Kestnbaum when he was a student at Harvard and a member of the Council, also.

Miss Channin is a dramatic student, giving histrionic presentations for the Council's pleasure and enjoyment. As the ingenue of "The Arcadians," the Council's show of last year, she inspired many complimentary comments as to her theatrical ability, voice and stage presence. No wonder! She is a student at a school of dramatic expression.

SECOND DOCTOR HELD IN BACK BAY RAID

Dr. A. J. Glickman of Roxbury Arrested on Illegal Surgery Charge

The fourth person arrested in connection with the raid of the alleged "fake" hospital in Back Bay was arraigned in Roxbury Court today.

Dr. Alexander Jacob Glickman, aged 45, of No. 457 Walnut street, Roxbury, is the latest victim of the police investigation of the "hospital." Dr. Glickman claims to have received his medical education at the University of St. Vladimira, at Kief, Russia. He is charged with illegal surgery.

The three girls found in the "hospital" at No. 115 Gainsborough street are at the City Hospital and are out of danger. One of the girls, a 17-year-old Fitchburg girl, is said to have implicated two Roxbury men in the case and warrants for their arrests may be sought today.

Dr. Aaron W. Reibstein of No. 157 Humboldt avenue, Roxbury, and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore H. Flowers, alleged owners of the "hospital," are out on bail awaiting a hearing on January 19.

REVERE "HOOCH JOINTS" WARNED TO GET OUT

Mayor John E. Walsh in his inaugural address at the Revere City Hall, declared that his official advice to proprietors of "that malignant industry developed since the Volstead act, known as the 'hooch joint.' If such exist in Revere," is to fold up their tents, like the Arabs, and silently steal away. "The welcome is off the mat for the next two years," said the mayor in this connection.

The mayor tarried for a time in his address to speak of the police department and the wave of crime that has spread over the country. Regarding the latter, he said, "what we have seen of it in Revere may be due in no small measure to lax methods in the enforcement of the Volstead law, resulting in a deplorable condition in a certain section of the city, and the cause of petty thievery, housebreaking, needless suffering, ill health and avoidable poverty of many innocent women and children."

The Strange Outcome of the Legend About LOVERS' ISLAND

A Startling True Story of a Girl who Dared to go to an Island of Pearl and Emerald Clouded by Traditions of Broken Hearts

THE young girl...shy, lovely, innocent...watched wistfully as the "courting couples" of her village sailed across the narrow stretch of blue Florida water to where the golden beaches of an uninhabited, palmetto-fringed island lured her.

"Clemmy," her stern old sailor father said, watching the girl anxiously, "you're big enough and old enough to know that you must never go to Lovers' Island except with the man you're going to marry!"

Then the gruff captain blurted out as a warning the story of poor Janie Welch, who, as guileless as Clemmy was, strayed over to the island and there met a young sailor from a strange ship. Folks who saw them strolling among the palmettos said they were in love. But the folks were partly wrong. Janie Welch's story was just like many another story of betrayed love that has come down through the ages.

Clemmy brooded upon the tragic tale, learning that there were things in life she had never dreamed of before. At last there came a green and gold spring morning when the song of the sea and the mysterious voice of the winds told Clemmy that she was no longer a child. Watching Mary Wrig[illegible] and her lover Jim, sailing to the island, she found herself wishing with [illegible] of the might of her eighteen years to visit the forbidden land and find if it were indeed as romantic as it appeared. She had heard that strange rich people who owned islands to the north of her village sometimes visited Lovers' Island, fishing, hunting and exploring. Perhaps among them was her Fairy Prince.

Late one afternoon Clemmy dragged her skiff high and dry on Lovers' Island. Tired of roving, secure in a fairy-like wilderness, she took off her shoes and stockings, threw aside her cape and streaked like a mermaid into the blue waves.

Then as she came back toward the beach she saw a man...a big, bearded caveman, the terrible reverse of the lover of whom she had dreamed...coming toward her, his eyes glittering with a wild light... and she screamed...

Out of this strange situation develops one of the most thrilling climaxes ever found among intimate revelations of true experiences. Finish this exciting story in the February issue of SMART SET.

"To find that a man was on the island, coming toward me paralyzed me completely"

LOVERS' ISLAND is one of 23 amazing true stories from dramatic real life told in February SMART SET by people who have known strange and thrilling experiences. Among such vital intimate stories are:

WAS SHE GUILTY? The second mate's bride had big innocent brown eyes. The chief engineer loved her. There came a moment when both men clashed bitterly. How true was suspicion? What did the chief engineer conceal from the mate? The wife's secret, for the first time, is told here.

HER WEDDING NIGHT She was a daring modern girl. When the bridegroom's friend challenged her to swim across the pool, she did it, wedding gown and all. Yet her wedding night brought a strange question to her lips.

WHITE FLAMES He was twenty. The fires that burned in him were still white flames. Then, in Paris, he met Lucille, a lovely figure model in the art school he attended. And so, with this seventeen-year-old girl he battled fate until—until...

WHEN YOU GO HUNGRY A first-hand view of the Human Bread Line where somebody you know may be standing cold and hungry.

I WANTED TO BE A LADY Life started for her in her father's Spanish restaurant near West Broadway. Her aristocratic Spanish blood craved romance in some great hacienda. The Valencia Ruby, with the color of blood and danger, led her forth to strange adventures. Then, in a hotel built like a Spanish palace in St. Augustine...

TIGER FLOWERS CRUSHES BRITTON IN FOUR ROUNDS

8,000 SEE THRILLING BATTLE

By JACK CONWAY.

TIGER FLOWERS gave more than 8,000 persons a demonstration of how he knocked out Johnny Wilson when he stopped Billy Britton of Kansas City in four rounds at the Commercial A. C.'s show at Mechanics Building.

Referee Johnny Brassil stepped between the fighters and [illegible] the contest [illegible] around the [illegible] ment, the [illegible] nose, his [illegible] and [illegible] his corner.

The bell sounded. Britton walked bravely out to meet his opponent.

The Tiger's right smashed the jaw, the left buried itself in [illegible] body. Britt landed to the body [illegible] self, then to the head [illegible] terrific spurt by Flowers. The air was saturated with punches as Flow-

Criticism of Boston High School Hockey Players Unjustified

By FRED C. LANE

Criticism of a constructive nature is welcomed by all fair-minded people. But unjust criticism is resented. Therefore we come to the front today for the hockey players of the Boston High School League, as we have in the past for school athletes who we believe have been put in a wrong light.

[illegible] the last [illegible] this circuit let it be said that no better or cleaner brand of hockey is played anywhere in this country. Head Coach Arthur Connerty of Commerce High, who has charge of activities at the Arena Saturday mornings, will vouch for this statement.

"The play has been clean throughout," said Connerty today. "Twelve games have been contested, and if my memory serves me right but sev[illegible]

[illegible] brown, and as a result [illegible] coaches who have charge of the various school teams in the league are [illegible] aining because of lack of op[illegible] substitutions.

I [illegible] my referees to [illegible] of violations, and [illegible] find it hard to [illegible]

"The boys in this league are well versed in the rules of the game, and [illegible] accounts for the fine sportsman[illegible]

[illegible] has yet to [illegible] ness or anything bordering on it. Manager George Brown and other officials of the Arena are loud in their praise of the style of game played.

Nat Young, director of physical education, was forced to drop basketball from the school sporting lists because of the bad blood that [illegible] but will investigate charges [illegible] roughness in the [illegible] if he is the fair-minded man we believe him to be, before taking any action.

There was a rumor to the effect early in the season that an attempt was being made to "railroad" hockey as a Boston high school sport, but those behind the scheme will find it difficult to accomplish their task, for interest in hockey was never better. When forty to sixty boys report for a hockey team on which there are but six positions, it speaks well for their interest in the game.

Praise and not criticism is what is due this group of athletes. Any boy that will arise at 6 o'clock in the morning on the one day in the week he is relieved from school duties to represent his colors, is deserving praise and plenty of it.

RADICAL CHANGE IN HARNESS RULES ASKED

Cleveland, Jan. 6.—Several radical changes in rules governing harness horse races, which, it is declared, will improve the sport, were submitted to the stewards of the Grand Circuit at their final meeting today. The schedule of racing dates also was submitted.

It was learned from a reliable source that recommendations of the rules committee provide, among other things, for claiming races, handicaps in which horses will be classified by their money winnings instead of time records, and for dash [illegible] at races at various distances [illegible] also will be taken, it is understood, to give judges more power.

There will be one more week of Grand Circuit racing this year than in 1924, with the addition of two cities, Aurora, Ill., and Atlanta.

Indications were that the season would open at North Randall June 29 and end at Atlanta in October.

WHIRLWINDS CLASH WITH N. Y. FIVE

One of the biggest basketball clashes of the season is scheduled to be played at the Scenic Auditorium, Berkeley and Tremont streets, tonight, between the Boston Whirlwinds, New England basketball title-holders, and the crack Hudson, N. Y., five.

Not in years has Boston been represented by such a wonderful quintet as the Whirlwinds. With the season just one month old, the New England champions have yet to meet defeat. Such strong quintets as Fall River Legion, Woonsocket A. A., Milford, N. H., and the Oke Club of Brockton, South Shore champions, have fallen victims to the clever teamwork of the local team.

Hudson comes here heralded as one of the best teams to represent that city in many years. Only three weeks ago this team played a 34 to 34 tie with the Original Celtics, world's champions, at Terrace Garden, and the Celtics refused to play the extra overtime period.

The Eagle A. A. of the West End and the Cathedral Club of Roxbury will play a preliminary game starting at 8 p. m.

JOHNSON DISAPPOINTED BY BASEBALL DEALS

Reno, Nev., Jan. 6.—Back at his home in Reno after his second failure to purchase the Oakland Coast League baseball club, Walter Johnson, star hurler of the Washington team declared that he is disappointed but not disheartened.

"I'm not going to give up yet," the big pitcher said. "I'm going to keep trying and perhaps I can get a club in the West that suits me before Spring."

Boston College's hockey campaign appears to be one Canadian team after another. The Eagles have dropped three straight games to teams from across the border, two to Toronto and one to McGill.

Capt. Jack Culhane's men believe they have sufficient power to knock off Queen's College from Kingston, Ont., a third member of the Canadian Intercollegiate League tonight. The other member, the University of Montreal, will be sent against Boston College later in the season.

The Eagles have a double reason for tearing after Queen's tonight. It will give the locals a chance to get in the winning column. Secondly, Yale having declined to play Boston College has scored two victories over Queen's.

The Queen's team will have a rugged bunch of men on the ice tonight. Nearly every man on the squad is noted for his rugby football ability. Not that rough hockey is anticipated but legitimate body checking raises havoc with a midget team like Boston College.

Queen's will have a smart starting line tonight. On right wing is Capt. Brown, who is playing his third year with Queen's. Another third year man in the attack is Jack Lindsay in center [illegible] Dave Bro[illegible] on left wing also [illegible] season with Queen's [illegible] Queen's has a forward line that matches the Culhane-Foley-Cronin combination in point of experience.

Bob Reynolds and Bud Brophy in the outer defence form a mighty sturdy outer defence. Quinn in goal is a reliable man in the net.

"TIGER'S" PHYSIQUE.

Tiger Flowers, the colored contender for Harry Greb's middleweight title, possesses one of the most remarkable physiques we have ever seen. He has a fine, broad pair of shoulders, a small waist, and wiry legs—the ideal build for a boxer. His back muscles are particularly impressive, and when expanded form a groove at the nape of the neck. He is electric in appearance. His body fairly vibrates. Even the pictures that he posed for in this office last Saturday were the best action pictures we have seen in a long while.

The "pull down" operates to take out of the forward swing in golf the [illegible] predominant "right hand" [illegible]

[illegible] swing, is not struck down with the right hand—it is pulled down with the left arm, and this left-arm pull extends throughout the entire left side. Right there you have the "pull down" in principle. This "pull" extends clear down to the ball at which time the right shoulder and the right side of the body instinctively go into the shot, but you will observe how very late in the swing this right side influence is exerted. The "pull down" takes the right side push off the beginning of the forward swing and puts it near the end of it, where it belongs.

[illegible] P. Gypsies as heard through WEAF was a fine one. Graham McNamee did announcing and with his unique way of making you feel at home it was a very enjoyable affair.

Receiving conditions last night were good [illegible] by local noises which may have been caused by crackling street wires somewhere. This didn't last very long, and wasn't quite so bad as the regenerative squeals which came through. Plenty of stations were heterodyne squeals between some of them [illegible] those who [illegible] stations over 1500 miles away with a super-sensitive receiver. It wasn't bad enough to be noticeable with the local stations, however.

[illegible] been [illegible] are possibilities. For instance if you are using a superheterodyne [illegible] ment, but would like to hear from those who are interested in it.

[illegible] how some announcers are trying to imitate Graham McNamee's style of announcing. They try to announce "spontaneously" and some of them don't seem to be very well cut out for it. There seems to be only one Graham McNamee so far, anyway.

RADIO LESSONS IN DRAWING GET TRIAL

Successful drawing lessons by radio is the latest development in the experiment to use broadcasting for classroom instruction being conducted by the Oak and public schools, co-operating with KGO, the General Electric Pacific Coast station.

[illegible] classroom conditions in eight schools in the city have just completed a course of six drawing lessons. The problem assigned was to create an original design for a Christmas card using the Christmas tree for a decorative motive and actually produce [illegible] work in response to suggestions issuing from loud speakers.

[illegible] to reveal the fact that by radio greater originality is accomplished than when lessons are conducted in person by the teacher before the class. As a result, it was stated, teachers will find an inspiration to [illegible] shown how to do [illegible] it was pointed that the radio voice only gave an idea, not a form. This left the children free to say for themselves what they desired to say when a happy or solemn feeling crossed their consciousnesses.

In the minds of the examining judges, "the experiment revealed not only the latent emotional qualities of young people as artists but offered a lesson on methods of teaching so as to secure intellectual criticism and balance in children's creative art without bringing about the destruction of originality."

SALAD greens have very little food value but are valuable for their water and potash salts, and stimulate the appetite. Of course you will choose only salad greens that are fresh and crisp and will thoroughly wash and drain them before serving. NORA LEE

A Story of Flaming Youth

Heart and Soul of 1924 Flapper Laid Bare in Best Story by Author of "Chickie"

START THE STORY HERE TODAY

Margaret Meadows married Will Lee at seventeen. His dissolute habits soon made her miserable. The night he raised his hand to his two-year-old child in a drunken rage she slipped from his home with her baby. Margaret supported her daughter by teaching school in several villages, finally settling in Fairdale, where she met Andrew and they fell in love. But he was tied to an invalid wife and Margaret refused to let him leave her. Nora, at seventeen, fell in love with Dana Herrick. Andrew says good-by to Nora Lee and gives her a packet of bonds. He is killed in an auto accident, and his widow demands the bonds of Nora. Nora meets Maxwell Reed, who makes love to her. Margaret dies and Nora is left alone. Andrew's widow accuses Nora of stealing the bonds. Nora hears a discussion of life as seen by the modern flapper.

By ELENORE MEHERIN

THEY were killing her—pushing her to her death. Because of them she deserved [illegible]

No one would hold her back. [illegible] had let her run into the danger [illegible] had merrily blinded her eyes and turned her loose in the [illegible] fields of life. And it looked so gay and there was such laughter. None [illegible] said "Oh don't! don't." No one said "An wait! There is beauty exquisite and holy—wait! There is the transcendent hour — your soul and another's—be patient."

Never Told

No one had told her that. Her eyes widened in incredulous wonder. Why? Why had not her mother let her know that life has this precious gift? Why had she not talked and talked and talked about it? Could be her mother didn't know? Could it be that only she had so loved? And only she must now relinquish love?

She trembled—tears [illegible] throat warmly. Her breath [illegible] so difficult [illegible] like one who [illegible] told her. She was going to die. Now—hurry—

She made a little stumbling [illegible] back to the desk and picked up the paper with the [illegible]

She could see [illegible] room see the [illegible] The silver [illegible] ribbons of light [illegible] wheeled [illegible] the window let [illegible] tar on the breeze. [illegible] it with a passion [illegible] paper would remain in this [illegible] sunny world. She would be gone.

"No Cause to Die"

The crystals gleamed in the palm of her hand. She would put them far back in her throat. No one would know what had happened. They would think it was heart failure. Oh, they would see her in the soft, wondrous dress—see a smile on her lips.

They would say "She had just gone upstairs a moment to try on the gown." They would [illegible] light hearted she had been that day, running about to [illegible] bed and be sure to open the presents first. Oh, she was a sweet thing. She had no cause to die.

They would see the love letters [illegible] finished. They would be deceived by its young solemnity—its [illegible] anticipation.

Ah, yet—she had written it with her heart tuned to the wild grief in her mother's face. Her mother dear, bustling one with her [illegible] cheeks and small, crinkling eyes. Her mother who had stood on the chair yesterday and found the yellowed old box with the bridal wreath of orange blossoms tucked away in layers and layers of blue paper.

Her mother stood before her fastening the blossoms on the bright, soft hair. And her mother's eyes had filled as she whispered:

"Dearie—oh, my dear little [illegible] to think you will be married [illegible] the happiness I know go with you all the way——"

Her mother had wiped her cheeks on a tiny handkerchief with a blue border. Why [illegible] she remember that?—a pretty little blue border—

Now her mother would come into the room—would kneel down with a mad cry and touch a cold, dead face. God—dear, dear God!

She pressed her palms over the tiny, sparkling heap and waited in a white frenzy while moments ticked. Die—going to die—oh, she must die. She opened her hand quickly and was about to dash the crystals to the floor.

Go through with it—yes—stand at the altar, give those mighty vows to one listening as to the cold [illegible] his coffin—ah, yes—to love—to hon [illegible] hold through life the cherished and most dear—hold him so! Look into his face, cloylike with anguish, see him wince if her hand brushed on his——

And when they were alone together; when they stood face to face that first moment——?

The thought of her mother trailed went off on a vague, nebulous cloud. The room filled with those swirling fogs; they blurred the windows, made the walls sway, the pictures moved farther and farther, she could scarcely [illegible] And far off, dim and [illegible] was the sunlight in the other room—silver vases shining in a remote world.

But unless I had this strenuous daily physical training, I would substitute fifteen minutes of energetic, physical exercises [illegible] my morning bath.

Some exercises have from time to time been part of my regime, and I [illegible] that I am [illegible] quite expert, even [illegible] handspring [illegible] which I do not recommend to the beginner.

I suggest, however, that you have your [illegible] analyzed to [illegible] that it contains no ingredient too drying or in any way injurious to your skin.

I then return to my bed and enjoy a delicious and restful half hour before my breakfast is served. I find this part a wonderful way to conserve energy and yet keep my system toned up and at its best.

My night bath—after the opera is over—is a real luxury, for I love to rest and relax in warm water.

Do not draw your bath hot enough to exhilarate you at night but [illegible] about 101 degrees fahrenheit. I scrub myself thoroughly with a long handled brush as well as my washcloth and favorite soap. After a final warm rinse and drying I am ready to have my hair brushed thoroughly and to apply the cold cream to my face that cleans and rests muscles and skin pores.

While he read twice he looked into the deep blue eyes of Celeste and a strange thing happened to the soul of Clinton Hayward. He began to detest the things he had said to these pupils of his. He knew that he loathed the sordid, even if it were true to life. He wanted to write of life as it should be, and not of life as it is when it shouldn't be! On the faces of the old maids he caught disapproval of the stories.

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medbury

THOUSANDS of girls in this country will be tickled to death to hear that the Prince of Wales is learning to play the ukelele.

HE wants some instrument that he can play while he's riding horse back and won't be damaged when he falls off.

OF course he wouldn't be allowed to play the ukelele on horseback in this country because we have a society for the prevention of cruelty to animals over here.

OUR laws seem to be kinder to the animals than to the citizens.

THE Prince is planning another trip to United States and wants to be able to play some kind of an instrument when he arrives, and a piano is too heavy to drag around Long Island.

IT is rumored that Edward will come over here and choose a wife. Then when she's Queen the King can play the ukelele for her.

THE Prince's favorite songs are "Hard Hearted Hanna," "Red Hot Mamma," "Big Bad Bill is Sweet William Now," and several other sentimental ballads.

SOMEBODY sang "I wonder What's Become of Sally" for him and he said he didn't know, but he'd have Scotland Yard hunt for her.

THE Prince is so enthused over the ukelele that he's surprised nobody ever introduced it in his country.

WHEN the Prince visits New York next time he'll probably have a ukelele on each hip.

MAGAZINE advertisements tell us that a ukelele or a saxophone can make you popular over night. Maybe this is true, but the Prince got along all right and he never even had a harmonica.

ALL he needed was a pair of shoes and a map of Long Island.

FROM now on he'll probably give away ukeleles instead of polo ponies.

THEY'RE much safer. The average person can't fall off of a ukelele.

THE Prince also plays the violin, but he likes the uke much better. He can play it with one hand and hang on to the horse with the other.

THE Royal horses are tickled to death. They're glad that the Prince didn't take up playing the organ.

THE Prince is crazy about the pipe organ, but with a ukelele there's no plumbing to get out of order.

AMERICAN girls who are anxious to marry the Prince should stop and realize what they'll have to put up with if they become the Queen.

SECRETS OF HEALTH

By Charles A. L. Reed, M. D.
Former President of the American Medical Association

DON'T fall into the habit of thinking that, because you know that some particular thing is true some entirely different thing is not true.

Don't think your own little truth is all the truth, or that it is all of the truth on that particular subject.

The fact of it is that new truths are being revealed every day by the methods of science, and that every truth revealed has some relation to some other truth or truths.

I am prompted to make these philosophical observations by observing a new outbreak of the old discussion about the relative importance of heredity and environment.

"You are what you are by what has been born into you," stoutly asserts the Hereditarian.

"Nonsense! A new-born babe is just a mass of protoplasm, a mere bag of jelly, and you can make anything you wish out of it by education," retorts the Environmentalist.

These positions lead respectively to the conclusions, as follows:

"Look after the breeding; education is unimportant" and "pay no attention to breeding; education is everything."

What stupidity!

Any sane person knows it is impossible "to make a silk purse out of a sow's ear" by any process of refinement known to the art of man.

Any sane person knows that children of good and intelligent ancestry are more teachable than are children of vicious and stupid parents.

Any sane person knows that children of any class of parents are better if they are taught than if they are untaught.

Heredity and environment are not antagonistic, but complementary forces each of which is necessary to realize the complete fruitage of the other.

"The income tax payments are going to be made public tonight. Bring a paper home with you so we can see how much Squire Samuels paid. I always knew he was rich, yet he always complains about hard times when the mortgage is due."

"Don't pay more than fifty cents for the Xmas presents you get for Uncle Jim and Aunt Lizzie. They forgot to take the price tag off the vase they gave us last year, and it was marked only 90 cents. I'll bet they bought it at a second-hand store."

CRACKLINGS

IT'S A GREAT LIFE ☙ ☙ By Les Conklin

THE little old woman who lived in a shoe had a mansion compared with the new apartments.

"Was Jack put out because you refused to marry him?"

"Yes, he got so angry over it that father had to kick him down the elevator shaft."

Permanent waves constitute fifty per cent. of a woman's overhead expense.

THERE'S NO HOPE FOR—
The fellow who pays an income tax on his winnings in the stock market.

The woman who walks five miles a day to reduce, but only succeeds in working up a tremendous appetite.

The guy who thinks that slapping the boss on the back is a good way to become better acquainted.

The woman who saves money for her husband by buying a $100 dress when she had her heart set on a $200 one.

The chap who cheats himself at solitaire.

"Why does your wife always lose at bridge?"

"She's been to so many auctions that she can't bear to let anyobdy else outbid her."

Scientists now claim that a large heel signifies laziness, but many men who are well-heeled are remarkably spry.

FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

Have you laid out any plan for your life? Have you given thought to your future, to your old age? Are you so living, so spending, so saving that you will be able to live without being a burden upon others when you are no longer able to earn a living?

If you have not yet begun to prepare for your future, if you are one of the too many who drift through life blindly, thoughtlessly, haphazardly, now is an ideal time to pull yourself together, to do some serious thinking, to start living before it is too late.

* * *

Ten commandments for building a successful life were given by the writer in this column the other day. Very sound suggestions are made by M. S. Rukeyser, financial editor of the New York Evening Journal, in his new book, "The Common Sense of Money and Investments." Says this capable authority:

"What human goals ought to determine the investment program of the ordinary individual? What objectives are legitimate and justify the sacrifice that saving signifies? A few considerations which are likely to be of general application may be enumerated.

"First: The building up of a fund to finance retirement is a common objective of investors. Since the human machine inevitably wears out, each year's income is in part a using up of capital. A part of the annual product should therefore be saved to provide a livelihood after the age of sixty-five.

"It would be well to figure on making large deposits during the years of maximum productivity between thirty and forty-five. Fortunately, an individual's requirements after sixty-five are usually less than earlier in life, because in all likelihood his dependent children will have reached the age of self-support. Funds intended to finance a graceful retirement should be invested in sound securities, entailing only a small degree of speculative risk.

"Second: A fund such as the foregoing should be available also to take care of emergencies, such as sickness, operations, unemployment of the head of the family and his dependents, or premature death. Savings might well be supplemented by the carrying of health, accident, and life insurance policies.

"Third: An investment structure is frequently planned to provide the means for education and travel, either for the saver or for close relatives. In selecting securities for a fund of this character, it is often well to pick out bonds that will mature approximately at the time the funds will be needed.

"Fourth: An investment fund is sometimes created out of savings from salaries of employes who have an ambition later to go into business of their own. Moreover, the small business man will frequently save to finance the future expansion and development of his enterprise. In doing this, he is proceeding along the same lines as the larger corporation which plows back earnings into the property as surplus to pay for improvements and betterments. Schooled to some extent in the ways of enterprise, the thrifty business man is usually justified in choosing higher yielding securities which entail a larger degree of risk than the ordinary individual saving for old age, or illness, or other emergencies.

"Fifth: Saving enough for a first payment on a home is a common motive in economic life. Similar forces induce thrift to make possible an automobile, a piano, or other high-priced articles for home use.

"Sixth: Prudent men also build up an estate as a reserve against speculative or business mistakes. For example, the reckless professional speculator frequently buys an annuity from an insurance company, which will give him an assured income, no matter how incorrectly he prejudges the course of security prices. Moreover, a resourceful business man, conscious of the fact that all enterprise entails a degree of speculative risk, will keep an ace in the hole in the form of an accumulation of bonds which represent an asset wholly apart from the resources of his business. To serve its purpose, such a group of holdings should consist of high grade securities, selected with a primary emphasis on security of principal, rather than high returns or possibilities of appreciation, and should possess instant marketability."

All I could add to the foregoing is: Start now to plan your life.

BUSINESS MEN LEAD IN BOND CAMPAIGN

By FRANK H. MELOON,
Financial Editor.

If you are a public-spirited Bostonian, you will be interested in the announcement that hundreds of prominent business men led by James J. Storrow, are participating in a unique campaign to wind up the financing of the new Boston Chamber of Commerce Building.

Every prominent bond house in Boston is participating whole-heartedly in this campaign to sell a million dollar issue of the Debenture bonds.

They are assisted by a large number of the star life insurance agents in Boston.

Still a third group are taking part in the selling of the Chamber Investment Trust Collateral Sinking Fund Debenture Bonds. It is composed of several hundred of the older members of the Chamber.

$250,000 BONDS SOLD.

Already more than $250,000 worth of the offering has been sold to the members of the general committee, composed of fifty leading bankers of Boston.

Chamber Investment Trust was created last month by the Boston Chamber of Commerce, to provide for financing the final cost, including two additional floors added after construction work had actually begun, of the new fourteen-story Boston Chamber of Commerce Building at the corner of Franklin and Congress streets. The debenture bonds are to be issued in coupon form in denominations of $1,000 and $500.

The Merchants National Bank is the registrar. Trustees of the Chamber Investment Trust are George C. Lee, Lee, Higginson & Company; Frank W. Remick, Kidder, Peabody & Company, and Robert S. Weeks, of Harris, Forbes & Company.

While the new Chamber of Commerce building was being erected the height limit permitted for buildings in the city was increased. In order to provide more rental space two floors were added to the building. The issue of $1,000,000 of 6½ per cent. collateral sinking fund debenture bonds has been in large part made necessary to cover this addition to the original plan.

SECURITY NAMED.

The Chamber of Commerce explains the security for the Chamber investment trust debenture bonds, saying the Chamber has an equity of $390,000 in its old building, which, together with furniture, fittings and equipment in the new building and United States Liberty bonds amounting to $340,000, makes a total of $730,000 of assets.

As additional security for the 6½ per cent. bonds $1,000,000 par value 7 per cent. second preferred shares of the Boston Chamber of Commerce Realty Trust, which owns the new fourteen-story building in the heart of the downtown business district, are pledged. Likewise the Chamber of Commerce itself makes a pledge from its own annual income so far as that may be necessary, either for the payment of the annual interest or for the maintenance of a sinking fund to assure the retirement of these bonds.

The Boston Chamber of Commerce has the largest individual membership, more than 8,000, of any commercial organization of its kind in the world, and an annual income of about $310,000.

The new building has ten self-leveling passenger elevators, a public cafeteria, a barbershop and all modern improvements for the comfort of tenants. The building is renting rapidly.

HIDE & LEATHER HEAD FINDS OUTLOOK GOOD

President Lilly of American Hide & Leather says: "We are optimistic over the outlook for business in the quarter of this year. January is starting out promisingly. Continuance of good shoe business is anticipated. It has in fact been quite satisfactory for the past six weeks. Tanners are pursuing a very careful policy in buying raw material. There is no speculation in the markets."

Liberty bond prices (fractions in 32ds) were: 1st 4¼s 101.21, 2d 4¼s 100.25, 3d 4¼s 101.6, 4th 4¼s 101.24, Treasury 4¼s 103.5.

STOCKS RALLY LED BY RAILS

With the technical position of the New York market improved by Monday's sharp reaction and a further relaxation taking place in call money rates, operations for the rise went ahead with renewed confidence.

There was a steady demand for the investment rails, while several of the industrials and specialties, which exhibited marked weakness Monday, rallied 3 to 6 points. S. S. Kresge extended its gain to 9¾ points, Jersey Central to 7½, American Car & Foundry to 6 and American Beet Sugar preferred to 4½, while Sears Roebuck, Radio Corporation, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, American Smelting and American Chicle preferred sold 2⅝ to 3½ points above Monday's final figures. Realizing sales were in evidence around noon, forcing some of the popular issues back a point or so from their earlier highs, but they failed to halt the general upward swing.

Sales in the first hour again ran over half a million shares. Call money renewed at 3½ per cent. and then dropped to 3.

Radio Corporation gained over 2. United Drug gained over 3.

In Boston, Elevated rose over a point in the afternoon, as did Mohawk, Calumet & Arizona, Ventura and Waltham Watch preferred. Gillette was up over 2.

HOW TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Barbo Compound Makes One Look Twenty Years Younger

Men and women who used to be called Grandpa and Grandma are now setting the styles by darkening their gray hair with a simple home mixture.

For instance, J. A. McCrea, a well known Californian, recently made the following statement:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture in five minutes, that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. Merely take a half-pint of water, add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, ¼ oz. of glycerine.

"These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at trifling cost. Apply to the hair twice weekly with comb. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and will not rub off."

WELL ONE DAY IN BED THREE

That Was the Life of Mrs. Hollister Until she Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Wyandotte, Michigan.—"After my baby was born I did not do my own work for six months and could hardly take care of my own baby. I always had a pain in my right side and it was so bad I was getting round shoulders. I would feel well one day and then feel so bad for three or four days that I would be in bed. One Sunday my mother came to see how I was, and she said a friend told her to tell me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So the next day I got a bottle and before it was half taken I got relief. After I was well again I went to the doctor and he asked me how I was getting along. I told him I was taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and he said it did not hurt any one to take it. I am always recommending the Vegetable Compound to others and I always have a bottle of it on hand."—Mrs. HENRY HOLLISTER, R.F.D. No. 1, Box 7, Wyandotte, Mich.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a dependable medicine for all women. For sale by druggists everywhere.

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfil the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfils almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder ailments, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention this paper. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

LAWSON'S INVESTORS STILL LIVE IN HOPE

tures, both good and bad, have ended.

But the hopeful have continued to hope against hope that Lawson some day would revive it. Hope in a stock gambler is a hard thing to kill.

A few years ago one well-known Boston man watched his family depart the house for a Sunday afternoon automobile ride. When they returned, they found his body swinging in the reception hall.

This man was one of the few Trinity faithful who had ceased to hope. The others, apparently, still have faith in Lawson and his frequent assertion that he would revivify Trinity and make of the hole in the West something more than just a yawning gap.

The hole in the ground, down which millions of dollars poured from the hands of investors, was in Redding, Cal., twenty years ago—and still is.

It was a nice-looking gap in the ground, as gaps go, when Lawson, in the name of the Trinity Copper Company, started the advertising campaign that resulted so sensationally.

The mine was far enough away from Boston to preclude any possibility of local investors looking into it too closely—and even if an investor did prove prying, there was enough evidence of copper down in the hole to convince any ordinary man of the mine's worth.

Copper Is There

Trinity, if worked in a modest, sedate way, such as all paying mines are worked, would have proved a profitable venture for any but a man with grasping instincts—or for a stock gambler with a super-grasp.

The copper was there, and always is there a market for copper. But mining is a slow way of piling up cash, unless it is pocketbook and bankroll mining as practiced by the Molly McGuires of Wall and State streets.

Just to give speculators a run for their money and enable the promoters to have pictures taken, showing great rolls of smoke whirling up from the smelters, the Trinity mine was leased occasionally to some ambitious party.

The lessee operated the mine on a royalty basis, but usually declined to renew the lease when it had expired. But it kept the Trinity hole stirred up and the natives of Reading could tell curious visitors that activity had been noted.

Out of these leases the Trinnity Co. derived a feeble revenue which went toward defraying a few of its maintenance bills, but never paid expenses. As a straight business proposition, Trinity was a drag.

But Lawson boomed Trinity and boomed it in a manner that few of the old-timers have forgotten.

In his persuasive style that drew dollars from pockets where dollars seldom rustled, the financier plastered the newspapers of the country with advertisements.

Puzzles in Ads

They varied in style, but most were of the "come on" type that advised buying, holding, selling, then buying again, according to how Lawson intended playing his own holdings—and it was usually just opposite to the advice he gave speculators.

He had advertisements that made the people read and read again, attempting to solve the puzzle of their meaning.

After reading, the speculators would become convinced that a tip was hidden in the puzzle somewhere—and would buy more stock on the strength of the hunch.

Here is a sample of one such "puzzle" ad, that appeared in Boston papers of January 27, 1907:

> TRULY TRUTHS ABOUT TRINITY
> $1,000 REWARD
> I will pay 1-3 of the above, amount 3 times to the first man who comes last to my shop by mail and shows me during my absence I am in when he is away. Or a third of the three times less two-thirds, plus one-third and the two-thirds with the other third that he is on the way afterwards to my shop if the shop should be by mail or verbal.
> R. EUBEN DANVERS

This type of advertisement would defy even the cross-word addicts of today. But here is another that appeared the following day:

> TRULY TRUTHS ABOUT TRINITY
> $1,000 REWARD.
> If any man comes to my shop and I will prove I am not, or again, because, or moreover, in my shop, if I am in, so much again, and I raise this reward three times and I begin over in writing under the condition as in the first or as before, three times before I raise. Does anyone throw three or as again over three?
> R. E. DANVERS.

You can figure these two notices out yourself—and please do not criticize the punctuation. It is all Lawson's, despite the nom de plume, a play on the State hostelry for the unbalanced in Danvers.

The wily financier had many aliases which he signed to various advertisements, for purposes which he well knew.

These aliases were helpful, inasmuch as technically they skirted him around a law, while at the same time he was able to place his subject before the eyes of those who held nervous money.

All the speculators knew that Reuben Danvers was Thomas W. Lawson, just as they knew that Willie White or William White, or Carsten Boe or Mortimer Kensington Queen were the financier likewise.

Some strong purposes—lost now after a lapse of nearly two decades—was behind these strange public notices inserted by Lawson. He was a learned general of the printer's ink and a specialist in trap baiting. And his ads inveigled the dollars.

A Merry, Merry Game

"Trinity—the Coming Copper Boom," launched in December of 1906, and well under way by February of 1907, netted Lawson a fortune.

"Buy Trinity—Buy Trinity," shrieked his full page, bold-face advertisements.

The public bought, tumbling over each other in haste to lay down the money and gather in the stock.

But before the advertisement appeared, Lawson had bought great blocks of the stock at the rock bottom prices, from $1 to $5.

Higher and higher the price soared under his glowing promises in the newspapers—and he fed his cheap stock out at prices of from $35 to $40.

When he had disposed of his actual holdings, he still continued to sell—but he was selling short.

Then, when he believed the time was opportune, he inserted his "disappointing news" advertisement. An injunction had been sought and secured against the mine operators by neighboring farmers or ranchers—or the vein had been exhausted—anything that would flutter the nerve of the plungers.

The selling panic would begin and, under the stress of the unloading, with no more eager buyers, the price would whistle shrilly on its descent to the bottom once more.

Lawson would cover his "shorts" when the price was at bed-rock and would deliver the stock he had sold on paper at the high prices. It was a merry, merry game—for Lawson, who held the throttle and had his foot on the brake.

Biggest "Shakedown"

Trinity was Tom Lawson's biggest individual "shakedown." The "Amalgamated" flotation was larger by many millions of dollars, but this was a huge combine, handled and backed by Standard Oil, with its alluring name.

How many millions were actually made by Lawson in the dozen years Trinity breathed and lived cannot be made known except by Lawson himself. But he made plenty.

Tomorrow—the adventure of the biggest Trinity Lemon and the Lawson boys in that exciting skit, "College Days."

some neighboring religions that don't please them.

To realize how close the Asiatics, including inhabitants of India, are to old-fashioned religious notions, remember that as recently as 1861, when Lincoln was preparing for his great task, an Indian rajah, to bring good fortune upon himself and his reign, offered at Jaipur a living sacrifice of a young girl.

It takes more than one century to change from that type to the Lincoln type understanding freedom.

P. S. TO SAVE any Swami or other the trouble of writing for further information, those interested are referred to Westermarck's big book on the "Origin of Moral Ideas." The Jaipur incident will be found somewhere near page 500. This is written on the train, the book not at hand.

THE TEST of Mussolini's strength comes now, and he handles Italy's problems and his own without hesitation or weakness. He doesn't intend to be any Rienzi, glorying for a while in his own greatness, intoxicated with his own importance, and finally stabbed in the stomach by a patriotic butcher.

FLORENCE and other rebellious towns in Italy will learn that times have changed since Savonarola. Flying machines can visit rebellious cities, and talk for Mussolini from the air. Railroads carry Fascisti police to any part of Italy in a few hours.

And Mussolini, trained for years as follower and leader in the hard school of Italian Socialism, knows what to do, now that he has changed from a rebel against government and finds himself the head of government.

NAPOLEON, as a young lieutenant, coldly looked on, during the French Revolution, as they beheaded the king and his nobles, knew that a few cannon located, and used, in the right places, would have stopped the trouble. Mussolini will use the cannon, also improved air and other methods if he has to.

The interesting thing is that he is now fighting the very Socialists with whom he once worked.

Navy Rules Discourage Air Men

The President Will Correct That

While the Navy and the Army squabble over flying machine matters, and the President, most wisely, demands that Army and Navy get together on an air program, this fact stands out, and the President's attention is called to it:

The Navy is governed by rules and laws that unjustly discourage the air men.

It is important that men flying for this country should specialize IN FLYING—find the fullest possible development of their careers, and the highest promotion IN FLYING, and that they should not be tied down to the earth, or the water, or otherwise handicapped by obsolete ideas.

This is the situation as it stands now. A man in charge of an airship, the Los Angeles, for instance, specializes in the management of that great indispensable engine of war in peace.

But before the time comes for him to be promoted, HE MUST LEAVE HIS AIRSHIP AND GO TO SEA ON SOME OUT-OF-DATE FLOATING VESSEL.

The law of the Navy, absolute and inflexible as has been shown by recent decisions, declares that a man must serve his number of years in actual work on board a ship, FLOATING ON THE WATER.

Such an officer, destined of course to be most valuable in future wars, gets no credit for the concentration and hard work that he has given to the art and science of FLYING.

His promotion depends on actual work at sea, which is entirely out of the line of work in which he can be useful to his country.

This rule, which President Coolidge will undoubtedly find a quick way to amend, is as foolish as though the railroads had a rule compelling the engineers of express trains to earn promotion by DRIVING A STAGE COACH or pushing a baby carriage.

The baby carriage and the stage coach are to the locomotive what the old-fashioned ship floating on the water is to the airship.

The worst of it is that this antiquated rule not only refuses a man credit for work done as a flier, but also compels him to TAKE HIS MIND OFF of that most important work, and go back to a ship, which has nothing to do with his real flying career, in order to earn his promotion.

It may be necessary for some member of Congress to introduce a law changing the rule made a hundred years ago that now governs the flying men of the United States. If that is so, it should not be hard to put through the needed legislation.

German Monarchs

An effort is being made by the German "old guard" to restore the kingdoms of Germany.

It is well-known the German Empire used to be formed of many kingdoms; it was the union of eighteen, with a Prussian "Emperor" at the head, that constituted the former government.

It is said that Wilhelm and Rupprecht, together with the Duke of Cumberland and Brunswick, have come to a secret agreement, according to which Germany is to be divided again among its former dynasties.

The ancient strife between the Wittelsbachs and the Hohenzollerns for Germany would be dropped, and a system of separate independent kingdoms would thus be formed. Such a system was in existence for centuries before the Empire was formed by Bismarck's genius and the armies under Von Moltke.

It is all an interesting experiment, and nothing will probably come of it, for it is an attempt to turn back the clock of progress.

Royalty is doomed, for the people have had a taste of democracy, and rather like ruling themselves. But royalty dies hard, and there will always be a considerable number of people who are endeavoring to bring it back.

Bernard Kellerman, the German novelist, said the other day:

"Kings have outlawed themselves. They have become as obsolete as the armored knight of former days."

They're Intelligent

Give Credit to Waterpower Gentlemen

You must give the great waterpower monopoly and the other big corporations credit for real intelligence in their methods.

You noticed how quickly they reached out for the government property at Muscle Shoals. They went at it a little more abruptly than the oil gentlemen went after the Teapot Dome property.

You noticed also the TACT of the power trust. They didn't select a Republican to introduce the bill that was to transfer Muscle Shoals from people's property to private property.

That was done by a DEMOCRAT, an innocent, big-hearted, generous-minded Democrat that would give you the Himalayan Mountains if YOU asked for them politely.

When a Republican Senate is to hand out the property it makes things much smoother if you get a Democratic Senator to suggest the "hand out," and start the ball rolling.

The thing was done a little ABRUPTLY, however. It might have been better to wait until the Christmas and New Year turkeys had been carved before starting to carve the Muscle Shoals turkey. There are in the Senate, Messrs. Norris, Walsh and some other Senators who do not put Senatorial courtesy ahead of honest dealing with the public.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

EVERY man is a study in black and white. There are two sides in his nature, forever struggling within his poor, tormented soul.

* * *

He is animated by his brighter and finer ideals—but nearly always ruled by his little weaknesses and impulses.

Helen Rowland

He wants to do big, splendid, magnificent things—but spends most of his time doing foolish, little, trivial things.

* * *

He has beautiful shining ideals about love and women, but somehow they get out of working condition the moment he gets near a pretty woman.

* * *

He builds his dreams about the woman who inspires him, but spends all his evenings with the woman who amuses, soothes, tempts or flatters him.

* * *

He begins by wanting to win a woman's heart—and ends by fighting for her dances or her kisses.

* * *

He writes beautiful, brilliant essays on the nobility of hard WORK—and stops in the middle and grabs his hat, when somebody rings him up and asks him to come out and play golf.

* * *

He resolves each morning to be calm, serene, tolerant, forbearing—and ends the day by going into a petty brainstorm, because the waiter brings him tepid soup.

* * *

He is always making a Great Sacrifice—giving up a habit, or a weakness or a woman "forever"—and then going right back to it next day.

* * *

When he marries, he resolves to be "on the square," but finds himself fibbing on the way from the altar to the station about a little thing like the number of drinks he has had or what time he left the office.

* * *

He is always going to eat less, get more exercise, and give up late hours, but a little thing like a rare roast beef with boiled onions and cauliflower, or an introduction to a dimpled flapper, will switch him right off the High Road and back into the primrose path.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

THERE are so many joys always in this bright world of ours, men sometimes, heedless, pass them by as childen tread on flowers. Oh, who could make a catalog of all the lovely list: the joys of beauty, sea and sky, of mountains touched with mist; the joys of wandering afar down wild, untraveled lands; the joys of music in the dusk, sweet lips, carressing hands? The world's a garden full of joys, men choose in passing through, and some love best the rarer blooms, exotic, strange and new. But for my part, I leave all these, life's orchids and the rest, for I was fashioned of the clay that loves the old joys best; the old joys that, like common flowers, adorn life's lowly ways; these simple loves and faiths of ours that bless the flying days.

Widowed Mother Pleads

Helping Hand Editor:

I am a widow with four children, two girls, 2 and 6; two boys, 14 and 15. My husband died six months ago and I am not able to work as I expect the stork soon. My two boys do errands after school. I have my old father with me also. He can't do any work. We are all in need of clothes. We can't get any coal. My rent is overdue two months and we have orders to move unless we can give some money. I wear size 38 or 40, hoes 7; father, 40, shoes 8; boys, shoes 5 and 5½. We are also in need of bed clothes. I can make over things. Hoping someone will help a poor widowed mother.

MRS. M. W.

Helped a Great Deal

Helping Hand Editor:

Will you please thank the person who sent the box of candy and fruit to my children. I also thank the Boston American for the basket. We were all very glad to receive them and it helped out a great deal. I also received some clothes that I made over for the children. This is the only way I can thank these kind readers, as there were no names on the parcels.

MRS. R. A. M.

Desires Skates

Helping Hand Editor:

I am the oldest boy in a family of seven. I am very fond of skating. I wanted a pair of shoe skates for Christmas, but my father is out of work and he could not afford to get me any. Is there any kind reader who has some skates, size 6½, that they would give me. I would be so happy to have them.

WILLIAM H.

All Need Clothes

Helping Hand Editor:

My husband has been out of work for the past 12 weeks with the exception of two or three days a week. I have six children, five girls, 10, 9, 5, 3 and 6 months old, and one boy, 8. My husband is very much in need of a suit of clothes, size 38, or a warm overcoat, and I would like a coat, size 40, and skirt and dress. Don't care what it is as long as it is warm. If I had a warm coat or dress I could be working now. I catch cold very easily. My boy is in need of a suit or pants and some warm underwear. My baby needs warm blankets and baby clothes.

MRS. J. C.

Bought Underwear

Helping Hand Editor:

I wish you would thank the good people who helped me and the kind person who sent me the two dollars. I bought some warm underwear with it. Wishing them all the best luck in the world.

KATHRYN D.

Family Needs Food

Helping Hand Editor:

Will some kind reader help a poor family. There are five little children, the oldest about 8 years, and the best thing they could get would be food. Of course anything would be accepted with thanks as the work her husband does is very scarce.

MRS. N.

Thankful for Money

Helping Hand Editor:

I am writing to think the kind readers who sent me money. You don't know how happy it made me to think that I could give the children a good dinner on Xmas Day. The children and I feel so grateful to those two kind readers. If I knew their addresses I would love to write them and personally thank them for being so kind. May God spare them.

MRS. C. W.

Wants to Board Dog

Helping Hand Editor:

Could you find me a family, preferably in South Boston, who would board a house-broken dog either very cheap or free? I have a bugle and a few graphaphone records that I will give away.

L. E. H.

Aged Man in Shanty

Helping Hand Editor:

There is a poor 73-year-old man living in an old shanty nearby. He is in need of heavy blankets as he has no bedding at all, only old coats for covering. He also needs an overcoat and a suit.

PEACE MAKERS AND PEACE KEEPERS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

CERTAIN things make for peace because they only thrive in the conditions of peace.

They are business, the arts, literature and things of that sort. These require common sense, good will and understanding.

The peace breakers are politics, the militarist establishment, diplomats, hate, suspicion and a lack of good will toward our fellows.

We are not going to have a permanent peace until we encourage the peace makers.

Policemen and similar officers are not peace makers; they are peace keepers, their object is to prevent strife. They work negatively, saying, "Thou shalt not fight," whereas they should work positively, saying, "Thou shalt co-operate."

They resort to courts and to force. The peace makers, on the contrary, keep away from the courts and have nothing to do with force. In their operations, peace is kept automatically and when the peace is broken, their operations cease.

Nobody wants to be kept at peace by other people, which is the reason of the breaking down of all peace-loving schemes.

Most of the conquerors of the world have called themselves peace makers, and most wars began in an attempt to make other people peaceful.

Peace makers, on the other hand, [illegible] automatically. They enrich the world with the efforts of co-operation. They found schools, they invent devices for bearing the common burden. They are constructive in their nature and automatic and quiet.

They need no propaganda, for they are themselves propaganda, and peace is the natural outcome of their operation. If everybody went to work and minded his own business, if everybody trusted his neighbor, and acted as though that neighbor would deal justly, there would be no necessity for peace keepers in the world. It is much more to the credit of a city to need no policemen, than it is to have plenty of them.

WHAT KEEPS EARTH FROM FALLING

By Garrett P. Serviss.

"IF the sun attracts the earth toward itself, why doesn't the earth fall into the sun? asks Francis Hunter.

Well, "pictures talk," so let us see what a picture can tell us.

We have a double picture. On the left hand we see the sun and the earth represented as if the earth had never had any force acting upon it except the attraction of the sun drawing it straight down.

If that had been the case the earth would long, long ago have fallen into the sun and been consumed. From the present mean distance such a fall would take a little less than 116 hours, or four days and nearly twenty hours.

But we know that the earth has not fallen into the sun, and seems to be in no danger of doing so. Although continually attracted by the sun, it only responds to the attraction by going round and round, as if, though unable to tear itself altogether away, it is determined not to go any nearer.

For the explanation of this, look at the right hand part of the picture. There we see the earth in three positions, viz.: at E1, E2 and E3. Let us look first at the situation when the earth is at E1. Its position with reference to the sun is then similar to that in the left-hand diagram.

But, now suppose that when the earth is in that position and falling straight toward the sun, some celestial giant strikes it a blow, as indicated by the arrow, in a direction at a right angle to the direction of the sun, and with a force sufficient to send the earth from E1 to b, in the same time the earth, if not thus struck, would have dropped toward the sun as far as a.

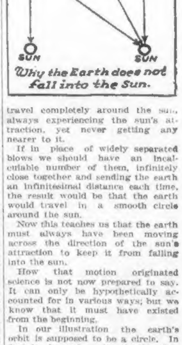
The earth has now two simultaneous motions, one of which, if acting alone, would, in a certain time, carry it to a, while the other, if acting alone, would in the same time, carry it to b. But since the motions take place together, where will the earth really go?

There is a well-known law of mechanics which answers the question by telling us that the earth will follow the diagonal of the rectangle E1-a-E2-b, and thus will go to E2. Now take your compass and measure the distance of E2 from the sun, and you will find that it is the same as the distance of E1.

In other words, although the force of the sun's attraction, which but for the other motion would have carried the earth straight toward the sun as far as a, has all the time been acting, yet, because of the simultaneous action of the other force, tending to carry it to b, the earth, while obeying both forces at the same time, has not got any nearer the sun than it was, but has simply moved with regard to the sun toward the left.

Now suppose that of E2 the earth is again struck with the same as before, but at a right angle to the line from E2 to the sun.

Then by the same law it will go to E3, at the same distance from the sun as E2 and E1. So by a series of properly timed and directed blows the earth could be made to travel completely around the sun, always experiencing the sun's attraction, yet never getting any nearer to it.



Why the Earth does not fall into the Sun.

If in place of widely separated blows we should have an incalculable number of them, infinitely close together and sending the earth an infinitesimal distance each time, the result would be that the earth would travel in a smooth circle around the sun.

Now this teaches us that the earth must always have been moving across the direction of the sun's attraction to keep it from falling into the sun.

How that motion originated science is not now prepared to say. It can only be hypothetically accounted for in various ways; but we know that it must have existed from the beginning.

In our illustration the earth's orbit is supposed to be a circle. In fact it is not quite circular, but slightly elliptical. But that does not invalidate the explanation, although to account for the elliptical motion a little more complication is required, as I have shown in another article.

ONCE-OVERS

DON'T BECOME RESIGNED TO YOUR LOT IN LIFE, BUT LET "CONSTRUCTIVE DISCONTENT" PUSH YOU ON

At middle age do you realize you have missed the mark you hoped for?

Take an inventory of yourself, list the qualifications you have to make the desired grade, and what you believe to be unsurmountable obstacles may be easily overcome.

Perhaps it is true that for one of several reasons, possibly, lack of financial backing, lack of experience or even lack of ability, you have not arrived at the top as you had planned.

But are you going to settle back now, completely giving up all effort to accomplish what you once thought possible for you?

If you are resigned to your lot in life it means that you are about to go backward.

Suppose you have failed to reach your ambitions and you are not in a top position at this stage in your life, should you cease trying to do better in the sphere in which you find yourself?

Additional effort to perfect yourself would certainly make yourself more valuable to others in your present station.

You may not reach the goal you sought, but you can climb much higher than you are at present if you keep your courage and your will to do well.

Don't stop trying just because the top seems unattainable to you. Remember the New Year means a new chance for you.
